Notorious Gossip

All tickets, please!" said the inspector, appearing at the door of the carriage. After all the other passengers' tickets had been punched, the old man in the corner
continued to go through his pockets one after the other, and to evince every sign of nervousness.
"Lost your ticket?" inquired a fellow-traveller; then, "Why you're holding it in your teeth all the while!"

Hurriedly the inspector punched the ticket and departed. As the train proceeded, one of the passengers remarked: "Unfortunately absence of mind."

"Absence of mind be blower!"
said the old man. "I was suck-off last week's date."

The subject under discussion was
New Year resolutions. "It's all a lot of rubbish," said the first man.
"and nobody ever keeps them."

"I don't know about that," said
the other. "Last year my brother resolved to give up smoking and drinking, live a more regular sort of life, cease to squander money on futile things, and live in a large house."

"He must have been a superman
if he stuck to all those resolutions
in one year."

"Oh, but it was easy for him,"
said the other. "He was sentenced to a year's imprisonment the first day of the New Year."

An Irishman's attic caught fire, and his wife, running for the nearest available water, seized the kettle from the fireplace.

On her way up the stairs she was met by Paddy. He stared aghast at the kettle in her hand.

"Mrs. O'Grady," he said sadly
"but it's regular fool ye are an
all. Fancy trying to put out a fire with hot water!"

A boy of fourteen went to the manager of a well-known football team requesting to be signed on.
The manager told him to come back when he was older.

A week later the lad turned up at the office with the same request.

"But I told you to try again when you were older," said the manager.

"Yes, sir," was the reply. "But seeing your team play on Saturday put years on my age."

TRIAL OF LORD DE CLIFFORD

Committee Appointed

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct. 24.

The House of Lords yesterday appointed a Select Committee, "to inspect the Journals of this House upon former trials of peers in criminal cases, and to consider the proper methods of procedure in order to bring the Lord de Clifford to a speedy trial." The following peers will serve on the Committee.

The Lord Chancellor (Viscount Hallam), The Lord Privy Seal
(the Marquess of Londonderry),
The Chairman of Committees (the Earl of Onslow), The Earl of Lu-can, The Marquess of Lothian,
Lord Stanmore, Lord Blanesburgh,
Lord Hewart (Lord Chief Justice),
Lord Merrivale, Lord Aldin, Lord
Thankerton, Lord Russell of Kil-lowen, Lord Marley, Lord Macmillan, Lord Snell, Lord Wright
(Master of the Rolls), Lord Mang-ham, and Lord Roce.

The Committee will meet to-day.
Probably only one subsequent meeting will be necessary to fix the date of the trial.

LADY ANNE HOPE IN HOLD-UP

Man Pushes Her
From Car

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct. 25.

Lady Anne Hope, the 21-year-old daughter of the Marquess of Linlithgow, Viceroy-designate of India, had a startling experience
this evening.

While alone in a car, driving to Hopetoun House, the Linlithgow family seat at South Queens-ferry, she was held up by a strange man on the Park-Linlithgow road.

The man attracted her attention by waving a red flag. When the car stopped, he compelled
Lady Anne to drive into a side road, where he forced her to get out of the car. He then drove away, leaving Lady Anne stranded.

A motorist gave her a lift to the police station. There was an immediate search over a wide area of countryside. Within three hours the car was found abandoned not far from the scene of the hold-up.

There was no trace of the man.
Last night all police forces in the Stirlingshire and West Lothian districts were searching for him.

The incident occurred during a thick fog.
Apart from shock, Lady Anne was uninjured, and later drove home in the car.

A PEER'S DISAPPEARANCE

The census of the Japanese peerage now being taken (which the "Nichi Nichi" calls an "inquiry into living conditions of the peers conducted under the pretext of a census) has revealed that Viscount Tadaakira Mizuno has been missing for the past twelve years, having vanished in 1923. According to the "Nichi Nichi," Viscount
Mizuno, while living in Honjo
Ward, was made the defendant in a breach of promise suit, and he apparently vanished in order to evade undesirable publicity. Several other members of the peerage, says the newspaper, cannot be located. The "census," which is being conducted by the Bureau of Peerage and Heraldry in the Imperial Household Department, will be concluded on Sunday, the last day on which members of the peerage may return the census blanks distributed to them.

LONDON DAY BY DAY

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct. 24.

VACANT GENEVA POST

It is still not certain that Mr. Anthony Eden will have a Socialist opponent in his constituency, Warwick and Leamington.

In any case, such opposition is not likely to prove dangerous. At the last election, in a straight fight with the Socialist, Mr. C. G. Garion, he had a majority of 29,000 votes.

At the previous election in 1929, he had a 5,500 majority over a Liberal. The Socialist candidate came 10,000 votes behind the runner-up.

Meanwhile, supporters of the Speaker at Daventry are organising on the assumption that Mr. Barnes, the Socialist candidate, will persist in his determination to fight.

"COCKPIT OF PARTY POLITICS"
Capt. Fitzroy will visit the constituency on Saturday, when he will be present at the adoption meeting in Northampton Town Hall, presided over by Lord Hesketh.

The meeting will not be confined to members of the Conservative organisation, but will be attended by prominent Liberals, and even Socialists, in the constituency.

After this Capt. Fitzroy will maintain a strict neutrality. His only form of electoral activity is likely to be a dignified letter to the electors, pointing out why he is precluded from descending to what he called in July "the cockpit of party politics."

All the canvassing on his behalf will be done on a strictly non-party basis.

DAVENTRY'S LIBERAL VOTE

Three months ago Mr. Baldwin suggested that he, together with Mr. MacDonald, Sir John Simon, and Mr. Lloyd George, was prepared to speak in the constituency.

Up to the present—probably owing to a desire to wait till nomination day to see whether Mr. Barnes really does stand—these offers have not been repeated.

It is perhaps fortunate that local Liberal leaders have expressed willingness to help Capt. Fitzroy. The Socialist vote has never been strong.

There is, however, a large Liberal vote. Before he became Speaker, Capt. Fitzroy only won his seat in 1923 and 1924 by majorities of 1,600 and 200 votes over his Liberal opponent.

A COUNCIL APPOINTMENT

The post of President of the Disarmament Conference, vacant by the death of Mr. Arthur Henderson, will not be filled this year. Some think it may not be filled at all.

Mr. Henderson was appointed not by the Disarmament Conference, but by the League Council. It would not, therefore, be necessary to convene the Conference to elect a new President.

The League Council's next ordinary meeting will be held in January. After tributes to Mr. Henderson's work, the Council will discuss whether to appoint a successor.

There are 14 vice-presidents of the Disarmament Conference. None of these will be selected to carry on. The 14 are actually the leading delegates of the Powers who compose the Bureau.

The man who will carry on now is M. Politis, the Greek Minister in Paris, who is vice-president of the General Commission of the Conference. He was the fifth arbitrator in the Wal-wal dispute.

Since the General Commission has not met since June of last year, and may not meet again, M. Politis is undertaking no very arduous duties.

VALID FOR FOUR DAYS

When Lord Maugham and Lord Roche, the new Law Lords, take their seats in the House of Lords to-day the oath they will take will be effective only for four days.

Though peers are members of the House for life, they receive a new writ of summons to Parliament after each election, and have to take the oath and sign the roll afresh.

Lord Maugham, in asking Lord Blanesburgh and Lord Russell of Killowen to sponsor him, remains faithful to his legal nursery. The new peer, like his supporters, was called to the Bar at Lincoln's Inn.

One of Lord Roche's sponsors will be Lord Wright, the new Master of the Rolls. The other, Lord Woodbridge, has no legal connections.

TAIL WINDS

High winds have harassed air line pilots recently. But as one of them pointed out to me yesterday, they benefit from Newton's Third Law. By this it followed that upon occasions they were travelling with the wind.

In support of his argument he quoted various recent instances of very rapid flights by British commercial aircraft.

Here are three of them:

Newtownards-Ile of Man (55 miles), 15 min.

Ile of Man-Liverpool (90 miles), 30 min.

Jersey-Heston (182 miles), 60 min.

The quickest has an average of 220 m.p.h., the slowest of 180.

PACIFIC AIR TUNNEL

I note that the Pan-American Clipper can be scheduled to fly the 6,500 miles from San Francisco to Guam in 60 hours. Its recent Trans-Pacific flight was not performed at anything approaching this speed.

The object of this flight was primarily to test the "block-signal" system. This was passed as ready for service over a fortnight ago. The guide-posts of the wireless "signal tunnel," were then described as making the route as easy to follow as the road from New York to Philadelphia.

The Clipper's departure was held up in deference to stamp collectors.

These sent letters and cards to the San Francisco Post Office for transport by the Clipper in tens of thousands.

TWO MINING MAGNATES

By the death of Sir Frank Meyer, the South African mining industry loses another very prominent figure within less than a fortnight.

Dr. Samuel Evans, who died at Johannesburg on Oct. 10, made the Crown Mines—he had been chairman for 28 years—into the "show" property on the Rand.

Besides holding the important position of vice-chairman of De Beers, Sir Frank Meyer was a director of several other South African mining companies.

They were alike in taking an interest in public questions outside their own spheres. They were also alike in being reticent about mining controversies.

Dr. Evans took no ostensible part in South African politics. In 1932 Sir Frank Meyer refrained from making public his reply to the attack made on De Beers by the South African Minister of Mines after their decision to close down until the diamond trade improved.

PARLIAMENTARY PRACTICE

A friend has queried my statement that Parliament will be "prorogued" on Friday. He says that I should have written "dissolved."

In strict puritanism, however, "prorogued" is correct. The course now usually adopted is for Parliament to be dissolved by proclamation on the day it is prorogued.

Writs for another Election are despatched by the same evening's post.

The classical instance of dissolution following immediately upon prorogation is that of William IV's speech to Parliament on April 22, 1831.

He then said:

I have come to meet you for the purpose of proroguing Parliament with a view to its immediate dissolution.

On that occasion the dissolution took place on the following day.

HOARY LEGEND

The "Red Flag" which was seen to be flying over the Mansion House yesterday was the red portion of the City Flag, which had been torn by the wind.

The City flag flies on the Mansion House except during periods of national mourning, when it is replaced by the Union Jack at half mast.

Its heraldic description is "argent, a cross gules, in the first quarter, a sword in pale, point upwards, of the first."

The sword is sometimes—according to a City legend as hoary as it is erroneous—described as the dagger with which Sir William Walworth slew Wat Tyler.

Actually it is of much older origin. It is the sword of St. Paul, the patron saint of the City, shortened to get it "into the picture," as it were.

The Wat Tyler dagger cherished in Fishmongers' Hall is another legendary object. It is certainly ancient, but the experts have pronounced it to be later than Wat Tyler's period.

TOPICAL BUETON

A very distinguished forerunner of "Lawrence of Arabia" owed not a little of his success in that country to the Abyssinians. This was Sir Richard Burton.

Rereading his "Pilgrimage to Medina and Mecca," I found I had forgotten that his reputation as a doctor, which preceded him to the

SPECIAL POLICE FOR HSIANGHO

No Settlement Reached With Japanese

Paoing, Nov. 12.

General Shang Chen, Chairman of Hsiao Government, returned here from Peiping by train this afternoon, in company with Mr. Li Pei-chi and Mr. Li Chin-yung, members of Provincial Government.

Interviewed upon arrival, General Shang stated that he returned to the provincial capital to make preparations for the winter defence in the province. He will dispatch the provincial troops to various districts to clean up banditry and to strengthen the power of defence. General Shang added.

The Hsiao Chairman further said he will make an inspection trip to various districts, as soon as he has attended to more urgent affairs in the provincial capital.

Referring to the Hsiangho incidents, General Shang said that in spite of the repeated negotiations between him and the Japanese authorities, no satisfactory settlement has yet been reached. However, prior to his departure from Peiping, he had reached an understanding with the latter that the Special Police will be sent to Hsiangho. The Special Police units, under Captain Chang Ching-yu, are now making preparations to proceed to the city of disturbance.

Holy Cities, was made by his treatment of Abyssinian slave-girls.

While staying at a kham or native inn in Cairo, he was neighbour to an Arab slave-dealer.

This personage "of brutal countenance and truly repugnant manners" called on Burton, who posed as an Afghani skilled in medicine, to cure his slaves.

Their more serious complaints included consumption and varicose veins.

He also had to dose many to cure them of the "pernicious and price-lowering habit of snoring."

STAPLES SURPRISES!

APPETISING SOUP

CREME A LA REINE

1 pint chicken broth
1 cup milk
1 cup chicken cut very fine
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
Make sauce by melting butter, adding flour then milk and chicken broth. Stir until it reaches the boiling point, season to taste and add chopped chicken.

TOMATO SOUP

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
2 cups tomato juice
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon pepper
Salt to taste
Make cream sauce of first three ingredients; add soda to boiling tomato juice then slowly add the tomato juice to the cream sauce—never the cream sauce to tomato as this might cause the sauce to curdle. A word of caution—never stir cream sauce and tomato with the same spoon—often the acid tomato juice that adheres to the spoon will cause curdling of milk. To enrich the flavour of the soup—bits of celery, parsley and a piece of onion may be cooked in the tomato before they are strained. Tomato juice should be added to the cream sauce just before serving and both must be at the scalding point.

SPINACH SOUP

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
Make sauce of first four ingredients, season to taste, then add spinach which has been put through a sieve. Add speck of grated onion if desired.

HUNTINGTON SOUP

1 1/2 tablespoons butter
1 1/2 tablespoons flour
2 cups chicken broth
2 cups corn
2 cups canned tomatoes
1 slice of onion
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
Chop corn, add chicken broth, tomatoes and onion. Bring slowly to boiling point. Rub through sieve. Melt butter, add flour, cook few moments then gradually add hot mixture. Season with salt, pepper.

The difference between Cream Soups and Bisques is that the latter always contain fish in one form or another. We highly recommend the use of fish because of its rich food content.

OYSTER AND CELERY BISQUE

1 cup finely cut celery
1 cup oysters
2 cups thin cream sauce
Celery must be cut very fine, cover with 1 cup cold water; cook slowly until celery is soft. Add one third cup cold water to the oysters and cook until edges begin to curl. Remove oysters and cut them very fine. Add celery, cut oysters, and the juice of both to cream sauce, season to taste.

BISQUE ROYALE

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups chicken broth
1 cup corn which has been forced through strainer
1 cup clam broth
Melt butter, add flour, then add chicken broth stirring constantly until it comes to boiling point; then add corn and clam broth, season to taste.

CELERY SOUP

For the first, chop up a head of celery and boil it very gently with a handful of rice in just enough water to keep it from burning. A double sauce-pan would be quite a good idea, and it should cook for two or three hours.

Then add a pint and a half of stock and bring to the boil. Pass through a sieve, heat through again, enrich with a little cream if you like, and serve with croutons of fried bread.

The second will be improved if you can use some game stock, preferably from a pheasant, but ordinary meat stock will do. Cut up two heads of celery very small, and blanch them for five minutes in boiling water.

Drain them and put them into a saucepan with half a pint of peeled button onions, a lump of sugar, a pinch of mignonette pepper (ordinary pepper will do, if necessary), and, if you still have it, a little tarragon and chervil. Moisten with game stock to your requirements, boil until the celery is done, and serve as it is. A good substantial soup for luncheon.

Vegetable Recipes

When you are tired of meat menus plan a vegetable meal with some of the following excellent recipes:

ARTICHOKE FRITTERS

Boil some Jerusalem artichokes until they are tender and then mash them to a pulp with a wooden spoon. Mix with this puree and egg well beaten with a tablespoonful of flour, and when this is like a thin batter drop the mixture in spoonfuls into deep fat. Drain well on serving very hot.

CABBAGE

Some people like to eat boiled cabbage with horseradish sauce. It is worth trying, but the sauce should not be too "hot." In Italy tomato sauce and mustard sauce are both used with cabbage.

LEEKES WITH PICKLED PORK

Cut up some pickled pork in small cubes, and fry them until golden in a little butter. Then add some leeks cut into rounds about an inch thick, and cook gently for half an hour, when the leeks should be done. Season lightly with salt and serve very hot.

CELERY CROSTATI

This is an Italian dish. Wash and clean the celery well, using only the best sticks. Throw them into boiling water for a minute, then plunge them into cold. Drain, flour and dip in well-beaten egg. Fry in shallow butter and arrange in layers in a buttered fireproof dish. Pour in a few table spoonfuls of good gravy, sprinkle with breadcrumbs, and bake in the oven until the crumbs are browned.

A NOVEMBER MENU

The soup for this informal dinner is a mixed purée of potatoes and Brussels sprouts bound with cream.

The sole is of the simplest. The fillets are cut into the thinnest of thin strips and they are egg-and-bread-crumbed and fried. Cut lemon or Tartare sauce may be served with them, but they will be found best if they are served plain, with perhaps a faint sprinkling of cayenne over them before they are brought to the table.

The pheasant is cooked "à la crème," that is, in a cocotte with butter and a small onion cut in half; three-quarters through the cooking, cream is added and the

Grème Flamande
Filets de Soles en Julienne
Falsan, Carême
Pores Diable

bird is basted with this while the cooking finishes.

A dash of lemon juice is added to the sauce at the last moment, and there is a garnish of braised celery.

The sweet consists of pears peeled and poached in syrup. They are then drained, and covered quickly with Chantilly cream, which is sprinkled with kirsch and set afloat at the last moment. The pears are served hot, of course.

DESSERTS

GALA RHUBARB DESSERTS

Rhubarb Custard Pie-Crust

Mix thoroughly
30 crackers, finely crushed,
1 tablespoon butter, melted
1 tablespoon sugar
2 tablespoons water. Pat down firmly with palm of hand to bottom and sides of a deep 8-inch or shallow 9-inch pie plate.

Filling

Mix together
1 cup of sugar
1 egg, slightly beaten and
2 tablespoons flour.
Add
2 cups rhubarb, sliced. Fill the crust and bake for 40 minutes in hot oven (375° F.).
Bake covered for first 20 minutes, uncover and bake for remaining 20 minutes. Serves 5 to 6.

Rhubarb Brown Betty

Use

3 cups rhubarb,
6 tablespoons sugar, and
5 tablespoons butter.

Melt

1 tablespoon butter and mix with 20 crackers, coarsely crushed. Place layer of crumbs in buttered baking dish, add layer of fresh, tender rhubarb, cut in small pieces, dot with bits of butter and sugar.

Continue with alternate layers of fruit and crumbs until all ingredients are used. Place layer of crumbs on top, dot with butter and bake in moderate oven (375° F.) for 45 minutes. Serve hot or cold, with or without cream. Serves 6 or 8 persons.

Rhubarb Meringue Pie

Blend

1 1/2 cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
2 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 egg yolks. Fold in
1 cup freshly stewed rhubarb which has been drained. Pour into baked pie shell. Cover with meringue made by beating

2 egg whites until stiff and adding
2 tablespoons sugar.
Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 10 minutes or until brown. Chill before serving.

Fresh Rhubarb Refrigerator Cake

1 1/2 cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk and
1 cup lemon juice. Add
1 cup unsweetened stewed fresh rhubarb, drained.
Use

24 vanilla wafers. Line narrow oblong pan or spring form cake pan with wax paper. Cover with fruit mixture. Add layer of wafers; alternating in this way until fruit mixture is used; finishing with layer of wafers. Chill in refrigerator for 6 hours or longer. To serve, turn out on small platter and carefully remove wax paper. Cut in slices and serve plain. Serves 8.

RHUBARB-APPLE PIE

Place

1 1/2 cups flour and
1 teaspoon salt in mixing bowl. Then blend together.
1 cup lard and
1 cup boiling water; then add to the flour and salt, and make a stiff dough. Use one half of the pastry and roll out on floured board, and line tin. Wipe rhubarb with a damp cloth and cut into one-inch pieces, filling the unbaked pastry with one well-covered layer of rhubarb. Pare enough apples and cut into eighth slices and fill the balance of tin. Beat

2 eggs and pour over top, season with 1 to 2 cup brown sugar and dot with butter. Roll out remaining pastry and cover the pie, cutting in slits to allow steam to escape. Bake in oven (425° F.) for 35 to 40 minutes.

EXTRA DAINY

Specially attractive confections are sometimes wanted for a birthday or other parties.

PASTRY CREAM SLICES

Light and delicious for teatime or supper with a real party flavour.

Roll some puff pastry out evenly to 1/4 in. thickness and 1/4 yard length. Sprinkle with caster sugar, fold over and press out. Cut into slices, sprinkle with more caster sugar, and bake in a hot oven until brown.

When cold, cut the slices in halves, spread with raspberry jam and whipped cream. Place gently together, without pressing out the cream, then sprinkle with icing sugar.

DAFFODIL CAKES

Decorative and seasonable on the party table.

Ingredients: 6 oz. flour, 4 oz. caster sugar, 4 eggs, 3 oz. butter, a pinch of salt, a pinch or two of saffron.

Cream the sugar and butter well, then add the yolks of the eggs, and very gradually the sieved flour and salt. Lastly fold in the stiffly whisked whites of the eggs the saffron.

Half fill some small paper cases, and bake in a fairly hot oven for ten minutes. Cover with lemon icing, with a pinch of saffron added.

SAUCE BORDELAISE

An excellent sauce for grilled steaks or chops, among other things.

Put in a saucepan a couple of ounces of finely chopped shallots, a pinch of mignonette pepper, a sprig of thyme, and half a bayleaf and half a pint of red wine.

Let this reduce to a quarter, and then add half a pint of half-glaze sauce. Simmer this sauce gently for half an hour, skimming it occasionally, and then strain it finely.

PIQUANT CANAPES

From Delicatessen Products

Early autumn parties usually mean some sort of liquid refreshment, and hand and hand with that go delicious canapés such as these.

MUSHROOMS AND DEVILED HAM CANAPES

1 cup deviled ham
1 tablespoon chopped pickle
12 tiny canned mushrooms
Combine the ham and chopped pickle and spread on canapé toast rounds or crackers. Remove the stems from the mushrooms and tuck in fat for 5 minutes. Top each canapé with a sautéed mushroom.

SARDINE CANAPES

Spread small square crackers with creamed butter, cover with a thin slice of raw onion and lay two sardines diagonally across the cracker. Sprinkle with lemon juice and chopped parsley.

CRAB MEAT AND ONION CANAPES

1 cup crab meat, drained and flaked
1 cup pickled onions, finely chopped and drained
1 cup mayonnaise
Salt and pepper to taste
Few drops tabasco sauce
Be sure that the crab meat and onions are thoroughly drained. Combine all the ingredients and blend. Spread on whole wheat toast rounds and garnish with tiny sprigs of parsley.

Finish just before you want it, with a couple of table spoonfuls of dissolved meat glaze and a few drops of lemon juice. It will be improved by the final addition of a few small pieces of butter, which will make it smoother.

HOW to TAKE 'ASPRO' FOR DENGUE

At the first signs of the dreaded Dengue don't procrastinate—

Take two to three 'ASPRO' tablets every two hours until the Fever abates and the pain ceases. 'ASPRO' is the greatest Fever Antidote ever given to the world. No other medicine has its anti-pyretic, anti-periodic and anti-germinal propensities after ingestion in the system. 'ASPRO' is far more effective than quinine and there are no harmful after effects. Make certain that 'ASPRO' is always in the home ready for any emergency.

FOR DENGUE MALARIA and other FEVERS always take 'ASPRO' according to the above DIRECTIONS

ALSO USE 'ASPRO' FOR —

'ASPRO' Gives Great Relief to Women When Depressed

Nothing Equals 'ASPRO' for Dengue & Rheumatism

Dear Sirs,
Having used your 'ASPRO' for Dengue Fever and also for Rheumatism, I have found that nothing equals 'ASPRO' for relief from pain.
I was very bad the last week in December, and could not sleep with Rheumatism in my legs. A neighbour called to see me, and the old man said 'ASPRO' Tablets were good for pain. I straightaway sent to the chemist for a box of 'ASPRO', and I can truthfully say that I was surprised at the relief I got after taking the first two 'ASPRO' Tablets—they took away the pain and I could sleep at night. I took three Tablets a night for four nights, and they relieved me, and now I am as well as ever.
Yours faithfully,
(Sgt.) (Mrs.) FLORRIE LOVE.

'ASPRO' Works Wonders for Malaria

Gladstone, Queensland.
Gentlemen,
I think it is up to me to let you know how I have benefited by 'ASPRO'. Ever since 1910 I have been a sufferer from MALARIA FEVER, having contracted same in Rhodesia, German East Africa, and the Straits Settlements.
I came to Australia from the latter country five years ago, and for the first two and a half years was continually in hospital in Victoria and New South Wales. On arriving in Queensland, a friend advised me to try 'ASPRO'. I did, and it has worked wonders. I still continue to get slight attacks of Malaria, but And if I take a few 'ASPRO' Tablets and hot lemon water, and rest a few hours, I am quite O.K. again. I wouldn't be without 'ASPRO' for anything and always carry a box about with me. I can thoroughly recommend them to anyone suffering from the same malady.
This testimonial is unsolicited and you may make any use of it that you think fit.
Yours faithfully,
L. B. HAY-COCHLAN.

INJUSTICE OF SANCTIONS

Strong Protest By Italy

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright.)]

Rome, Nov. 12.

The note addressed by the Italian Government to the Sanctions Committee states that the full text of which, published here on Tuesday afternoon, recalls that Italy has already disputed the conclusion reached by the League regarding Italo-Abyssinian conflict in its note of Oct. 7 as well as in statements made to the League by her representatives. On these occasions she repudiated the accusation that she had infringed the obligations imposed by article XII of the League Covenant.

To-day when in consequence of these conclusions, Article XVI of the Covenant is being claimed as justification for the preparation of forcible measures against Italy by numerous member states, the Italian Government protests anew, strongly and emphatically, against the severity and injustice of the measures which have been decided upon to its detriment. The Italian Government's objections are (1) facts advanced with the Italian memorandum were not submitted for proper examination, (2) that provisions of the League Covenant applying to the present situation were not applicable.

After disputing the competency of the Co-ordinating Committee which decided Sanctions, the note protests energetically against an embargo being put on the exportation of arms to Italy, while the same embargo has been raised in the case of Abyssinia. Far from accelerating the conclusion of the conflict this measure will only increase its difficulties and extend its duration. The note further claims that the situation which has developed since the League's last assembly fully confirms the rectitude of the Italian motive, since inhabitants of Abyssinia put themselves under Italian protection in large numbers. The Italian Government has abolished slavery in occupied regions and has given sixteen thousand slaves their freedom which they had wanted in vain to receive from the government in Addis Ababa. The liberated population regarded Italy as a power which has the right capability for exercising protection which is recognised in article XXII of the League Covenant as a mission for civilisation.

The League must take account of such events which occurred since it made its decision and act accordingly. The note then deals with various financial measures which are being adopted against Italy, pointing out that it is the first time such sanctions are being employed, and under circumstances which the Italian Government and nation feel unjust and arbitrary, and calling for the strongest protest from the Government. After predicting serious consequences that these measures will have on the world trade, the note states that nobody will dispute Italy's right and necessity to protect its own existence and that the Italian Government, therefore, is obliged in its turn to adopt retaliatory measures of economic and financial character. The stoppage of Italian exports is more than an economic measure; it is an unyielding act and justifies unavoidable reprisals on the part of Italy. Sanctions and counter-sanctions, it is emphasised, produce serious moral and psychological results which could last much longer than direct consequences of sanctions themselves.

Italy, the note affirms, has hitherto no desire to withdraw from the Geneva institution despite her opposition to the procedure taken to her detriment, since she wishes to avoid the dispute from developing into further serious complications. Moreover the Italian Government has already taken all steps for preventing new dangers arising from the present situation.

The Italian Government, concludes the note, would be pleased to learn how each government from its own free and sovereign will, intends to proceed with regard to the forcible measures which it is proposed to apply to Italy.

CINEMA TRADE NOTICES

"EVERY NIGHT AT 8"

Displaying his talents in an entirely new kind of screen portrayal, George Raft comes to the Queen's Theatre in the next attraction. In "Every Night At Eight" as an egotistical, yet humanly sympathetic dance band leader. The film, a romantic comedy drama set to music, produced by Walter Wanger for Paramount, is the screen's presentation of a radio amateur hour. Alice Faye, Frances Langford, Patsy Kelly, the Three Radio Rogues and Walter Catlett are in the supporting cast, directed by Raoul Walsh from the screen play by Gene Town and Graham Baker. Six brand new song hits are introduced. They include "Every Night At Eight", "I Feel A Song Coming On", "I'm in the Mood for Love", "Speaking Confidentially", "Take It Easy" and "Then You've Never Been Blue."

The story concerns a group of young singers who try out an amazing radio programme. They meet with dismal failure but through the help of another amateur, Raft, they are shot to over night success. The obstacles they overcome in winning success forms the plot of the story.

ROMANCE IN "DINKY"

The poignant griefs of childhood, its inarticulate romance, its robust joys, its thrills and its laughter, have been gathered together in a great film play, "Dinky" in which Warner Bros. have starred Jackie Cooper, and for which they have assembled a remarkable cast of child actors.

His orphan-girl sweetheart is played by Betty Jean Haney and his pals are George Ernest, Edith Fellows and Sidney Miller. His special chum is portrayed by Jimmy Butler, with Richard Quine in the role of the juvenile "villain." Among the grown-ups in the pic-

"ONE NEW YORK NIGHT"

There is more compact drama in the average American hotel than can be found under any one roof in the world.

This is the opinion of Jack Conway, "One New York Night" which comes to the Oriental Theatre on Friday and Saturday.

"Grand Hotel" was probably the first picture to uncover the pulsating life, the dire tragedies and the genuine laughs to be found in this cross-section of humanity.

"Celebrities are to be glimpsed briefly, shady characters working outside the law, naïve travellers seeking excitement and recreation, sophisticated bored with life, businessmen keyed to feverish pitch, all passing to and fro under one roof, making for the most unique cross-section of life ever seen in one place.

"Statistics show that more suicides occur in hotels than in any other public gathering place, a circumstance for which hotels, however, are not responsible. It is also interesting to note that few children are born in his mad rendezvous of transients."

"One New York Night is laid in a hotel where a dozen people from various walks of life become involved in a mystery that is said to induce as many chuckles as thrills.

Franchot Tone, and Una Merkel are co-featured in this story. Others in the cast include Conrad Nagel, Harvey Stephens, and Stef Duna.

ure are Mary Astor in the role of Jackie's mother, Roger Pryor, Henry Armetta, Clay Clement, Florence Fair, Joseph Crehan, Addison Richards and Jam's Burke.

There are two romances in the film, one between Jackie and Betty Jean, and other between Miss Astor and Roger Pryor.

DANTE'S INFERNO

14,000 Persons
Engaged In The Production

Six hundred and thirty years ago in Italy, Dante Alighieri, a political fugitive, wrote "The Divine Comedy," which won him the rating of Italy's greatest poet. Some sixteen months ago, Fox Film executives decided to produce a modern version of "Dante's Inferno," which comes on Sunday to the King's Theatre.

Sets were built and experiments conducted by some 4,950 technicians, architects, artists, carpenters, stonemasons and laborers.

In the laboratory, chemists and special effects men went to work attempting to achieve a sea of boiling pitch, a rain of fire, a sea of ice, suicide trees with human beings growing into them, a lake of fire and other minor tortures.

At last the desired effects were perfected and lighted by 250 electricians who remained on the job constantly throughout the filming of the Inferno sequences. These shots were made separately, while the cast headed by Spencer Tracy, Claire Trevor, E. B. Walthall and Alan Dinehart, enacted the modern side of the show in a separate studio.

When the extras finally received their call to appear in the Inferno, the harassed Lachman was confronted by another problem. He had 3,000 men and women to make up to convincingly resemble Mr. Alighieri's army of lost souls.

The studio's make-up artist, Tom Karnagel, was called into conference, and after a series of experiments, attained the desired results.

As for the bulk of the extras, Karnagel devised the method of applying the make-up with a spray gun, and each day of "shooting" the entire company was lined up along miles of tarpaulin and sprayed into character.

With all of the details arranged, "shooting" progressed with fair smoothness and after three months Lachman shouted "cut" for the last time and the "Inferno" was recorded on celluloid.

So "Dante's Inferno," upon which some 14,000 men and women worked for nearly a year and a half, will be on display in theatres soon and the results of all this labor will be seen for a fleeting hour and thirty minutes.

"LOVE ME FOREVER"

Grace Moore's new picture, "Love Me Forever" a Columbia film, now showing at Alhambra and King's Theatre, has been released all over the country, people are making the same statements again. According to all reports, "Love Me Forever" is far surpassing "One Night of Love" in every respect.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN TO VISIT LONDON

First Night Of His
New Film

London, Oct. 25.
Charles Chaplin is to visit London for the first night of his new film, "Modern Times," which will be presented at the Tivoli on Dec. 19.

He will be accompanied by his leading lady in the film, Paulette Goddard, and it is expected that they will make a personal appearance at the conclusion of the film.

Mr. A. W. Jarratt, who travelled 6,000 miles to secure the first presentation of the film in England on behalf of Gaumont-British, returned yesterday from Hollywood.

At a reception given him at the Savoy, he explained that he was pledged to Mr. Chaplin not to discuss the film except in general terms.

"I can say this, however," he told me, "it is the most expensive film that I have ever bought."

"I anticipate that it will run from 16 to 20 weeks at the Tivoli, and we are prepared if necessary to keep it for longer than that. In any case, the film is not likely to be generally released until next October."

"It is a film of 8,000ft. lasting about an hour and 20 minutes—the most elaborate of all the films that Chaplin has made. Even now he is 'fiddling' with the sound sequences and the continuity, but I am satisfied that it is his finest achievement."

On the question whether Chaplin speaks in "Modern Times," Mr. Jarratt keeps an enigmatic silence. He admits that it is a 'talking' film, but that the dialogue is brief and relatively unimportant.

JACKIE COOGAN GETS £200,000

Twenty First Birthday Present

(Special Air Mail Service)
London, Oct. 24.
Mr. Jackie Coogan, who was the greatest juvenile money-maker of the silent picture era, will be 21 on Saturday, and will come into a £200,000 trust fund.

This birthday present is the result of careful management of his affairs by his father, Mr. John Coogan, who was killed in a car accident last May. He accumulated all the boy's earnings in a special fund.

Mr. Coogan, who is now a serious, hard-working man, he declares he is too young to think of marriage, though he has been seen much in the company of some of the younger actresses in particular Miss Ida Lupino, Miss Toby Wing and Miss Betty Grable.

His birthday resolutions are: No hasty marriage, to finish his college education, produce better pictures, and follow his father's example in the careful management of money affairs.

HENDERSON'S DEMISE

Tributes To His Labours

(Special Air Mail Service)
London, Oct. 22.

Mr. Henderson was entrusted with important work for disarmament, at Geneva. In the Assembly of the League he announced the British Government's decision to sign the so-called Optional Clause in the statutes of the Permanent Court of International Justice, and put forward amendments to the Covenant of the League designed to bring it into the Kellogg Pact.

At the Council meeting in January, 1931, Mr. Henderson called for a determined effort to complete the preparations necessary for the opening of the Disarmament Conference the following year. He was unanimously appointed president by the Council in May, 1931, and the Conference opened in February, 1932. But in the interval the Labour Administration had given way to the National Government at home, and Mr. Henderson was out of office.

His single-mindedness was never seriously impugned, but he was involved in one or two critical episodes. In June, 1933, he was given a mandate to conduct private negotiations, and for that purpose attended the Economic Conference in London, but to his chagrin he found the delegates much too pre-occupied to pay attention to him.

He then went to Italy, where he saw Signor Mussolini; to Germany, where he saw Herr Hitler; and to France; and suggested a meeting between Herr Hitler and M. Daladier, then the French Prime Minister. The idea was received with reserve on both sides, and in October of the same year Germany broke away from the Conference.

The president, in reply to the German Government's telegram, said that he was unable to accept as valid the reasons which Germany gave for her grave decision.

CONFERENCE SAVED
The first meeting of the General Commission of the Conference after the German withdrawal took place in May, 1934, in most discouraging circumstances. The exchanges of Notes with Germany had opened up what appeared to some Governments, at any rate, possibilities of breaking the deadlock, but M. Barthou, who had become French Foreign Minister, made the publication of the increased German estimates the ground for refusing to consider Herr Hitler's proposals. Mr. Henderson did his best to secure agreement for a programme of work and discussion designed to secure Germany's return. M. Barthou, at first declined to consider any concessions, but eventually presented a counter-proposal. The Conference was only just saved, and all the president could do subsequently was to keep the Conference together in the forlorn hope of ultimate success. But he was never in a position to command success.

In 1933 the Carnegie Foundation at The Hague awarded him the Waterloo Peace Prize of the value of £2,200, and he was also awarded the Nobel Peace Prize of about £8,100 for 1934.

Mr. Henderson married in 1888 Eleanor, daughter of Mr. W. Watson, of Rotherfield, Sussex. They had the satisfaction of seeing two of their three sons enter the House of Commons during Mr. Henderson's own Parliamentary career.

All three held commissioned rank in the Army during the War, the oldest, Captain David Henderson, being killed in action. There is also a daughter.

COUNTY MATCH AT WINDSOR

An Easy Victory For Middlesex

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct. 20

Middlesex beat Berkshire in a county match at Windsor yesterday by three goals and four tries (27 points) to a goal and two tries (11 points).

The score is a true indication of the superiority of Middlesex, and yet, in spite of their easy victory, they were by no means an impressive side. Early in the match Middlesex lost D. V. Bowen-Jones, who was badly hurt, and their remaining forwards, with few exceptions, failed to find the inspiration which sometimes comes from such a loss. They were lethargic in most that they did, but perhaps the most surprising shortcoming was an absence of any advantage in the set scrummages. Here, Berkshire had quite their share of the ball, but their backs had neither individual thrust nor ability to combine.

There was far too much wild kicking, often from absurdly dangerous positions, and more than one wildly thrown pass allowed the beginning of a counter-attack.

DEFENSIVE BACKS

However, the defence of some of the Berkshire backs, particularly C. Reddington and A. H. G. Hampshire, was very sound, but elsewhere gaps were found and used by opponents whose pace was often more relied upon than cleverness. P. L. U. Andler had quite a happy match, making good use of the service from L. Bok either to score himself or to make openings that led to a try being scored. R. Thomas was well held by Reddington and C. G. Wright.

For the most part, was neglected by his centre, but G. H. Davies was often prowling round for an opening, and the individual effort generally was more successful than the combined movement.

Of the forwards, K. Wilkins was a vigorous leader, and he received good support from H. B. Redwell, K. H. Chapman, and M. R. Blair, with R. A. P. Hogbin playing well enough in the loose to compensate in some measure for his inability to smother T. G. Bishop. Berkshire, too, had their heroes, and T. B. L. Muir, who was very nearly the best forward on the field, and A. Norris, hooking well, leading many a raid, gave inspiration to a pack that at least played wholeheartedly.

Berkshire went away with a rush, but the Middlesex forwards retaliated quickly and Chapman and Hogbin carried along a bout of passing which ended in Candler running over. Chapman kicked a goal, and a moment later Candler moved outside cleverly to take a return pass from O. G. Hogbin.

to score in the corner. Bowen-Jones then left the field and the Berkshire forwards had the upper hand for a while. But their backs did not pass well, and two wild kicks were safely touched down. From the second of these, how-

SURREY MASONIC MEETING

The Prince Of Wales
Attend

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct. 24

The Prince of Wales presided last night at the annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Surrey, held in the Grand Temple of Freemasons' Hall. Every one of the 1,750 seats was occupied.

Supporting the Prince were Canon J. C. Morris, Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Mr. William Peet, Assistant Provincial Grand Master, Lieutenant-Colonel H. A. Mann, Provincial Grand Secretary, the other Provincial Grand Officers, Lord Harris, Sir Philip Colville Smith, and Mr. J. Russell McLaren, President of the Board of General Purposes.

The Prince of Wales referred to the deaths of Lord Amphil and Lord Cornwallis, and a resolution of sympathy was carried, all present standing to order in silence.

The report on the condition of the Province, said his Royal Highness, showed that there were now 132 Lodges and a total of 8,173 Masons in Surrey, an increase of six Lodges and 212 members. He referred to an item in the accounts that over £450 had been collected for the King George's Jubilee Trust, which gave him great personal satisfaction.

He said he hoped to be present next spring when the Prince of Wales's Ward in the Royal Masonic Hospital at Ravenscourt Park, W.6, would be opened. Amid great enthusiasm he expressed the pleasure with which he visited each year the Provincial Grand Lodge. Recently he had permitted the use of two feathers to be included in the new grant of arms to Provincial Grand Lodge which has been authorized by the College of Arms, the cost of which has been defrayed by the Friendship and Harmony Lodge, of which he is at present Master.

The Prince subsequently presided at dinner in the Connaught Rooms, at which more than 700 were present.

ever, the drop-out was charged down and Norris rushed the ball over for a try that was not converted. Middlesex scored again before half-time, Wilkins was up to touch down after a clever piece of play by Thomas, but once again the kick at goal fell short.

More interest was aroused when Bishop stole away cleverly and Whitaker scored in the corner, then Wright touched Middlesex farther ahead, after good play by Chapman and Hogbin. Hogbin kicked a good goal. A good breakthrough by Candler ended in Thomas scoring in the corner. Then Wright touched down from a kick ahead by Candler to give Middlesex a commanding lead, but Berkshire temporarily halted the progress of Middlesex when Hampshire successfully completed a break-through by C. F. Luttman.

Muir added to his laurels by kicking a good goal, but Middlesex had time to score again, Thomas did not pass well, and two wild kicks were safely touched down. From the second of these, how-

WEST OF SCOTLAND'S BIG DEFEAT
(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct. 22.
Hillhead High School F.P.s. beat West of Scotland, on Saturday by three goals, a dropped goal, and five tries (34 points) to nothing.

A strong wind made combination difficult and both sets of backs made many mistakes in the first half because the defences closed quickly and tackled soundly. West of Scotland fell away in the second half and then Hillhead were seen at their best, and if they had not been over-elaborate they would have won by an even greater margin.

In the first half they had a hard struggle and hardly deserved to lead at the interval by two tries, which were scored by R. Murdoch and A. Ross. Afterwards B. O. Dias obtained a try at the corner. W. A. Ross and W. C. W. Murdoch followed with tries, both of which were converted. The latter converted Ross's try and R. Fulton the other. Then W. C. W. Murdoch dropped a goal and other tries were added by W. A. Ross, B. O. Dias, and R. Murdoch. R. Fulton converted the last score.

The teams were:

POLICE TRAP DEPLORED

Magistrate's Pointed Comments

When Alexander Ogilvie of the Airline Hotel, No. 25 Nathan Road, was summoned before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistrate's for a breach of his hotel-keeper's adjunct licence, His Worship mentioned that although it was not illegal, it was unfair to deliberately trap a man into committing a breach of the regulations without any warning.

Before binding over defendant in a personal bond of $50 for twelve months, His Worship stated that he did not like policemen being sent to cause a breach of regulations and going on information deliberately to trap a man, and added that it was unfair. He had expressed this opinion to the police in Kowloon before. The Magistrate went on that it was not merely his own opinion, but it was the attitude of the public. However, such action was not illegal, and as the case had been brought before him, the prosecution was entitled to a conviction.

The case against defendant was that he unlawfully sold intoxicating liquors to persons other than residents in a place other than the dining room, namely, the lounge, and not in conjunction with a bona-fide meal for which a charge of 30 cents could reasonably have been made at the Airline Hotel at 9.15 p.m. on November 1.

Mr. P. H. Sin appeared for the defendant and pleaded guilty to a technical offence.

THE POLICE TRAP

Inspector G. A. Stimson, who was the complainant, stated in an outline of the case, that complaints had been received by the police about serving of liquor at the Airline Hotel. On the night of November 1, two police constables, P. C. Appleton and P. C. Greig, were sent to the Hotel with instructions to buy bottles of beer. The two constables were seen to enter the Hotel in plain clothes at 9.10 p.m. and Inspector Stimson and Detective Sergeant D. Davies kept watch a few hundred yards away. At 9.30 p.m. Inspector Stimson and Sergeant Davies entered the Hotel and went to the first floor where they saw the "boy" in attendance. The "boy" asked Sergeant Davies if he wanted any beer and invited them to go into the dining room.

NO WARNING GIVEN

Inspector Stimson then went to the lounge, where he saw Mr. Ogilvie at the counter, and the two police constables seated on a settee. Each of them had an empty beer bottle in front of him and glasses half filled with beer. Inspector Stimson asked them if they had paid for it and they replied "Yes" so Inspector Stimson told defendant that he would be summoned for the offence.

According to P. C. Appleton's evidence, continued the prosecution, defendant was present at the time of the sale, but it was admitted that no warning was given to defendant before the alleged offence.

Mr. Sin, for the defendant, stated that he had pleaded guilty to the offence complained of, but he denied that defendant was present at the bar at the time of the sale although he was in the Hotel. Mr. Sin submitted that it was a trivial matter whether Mr. Ogilvie was there or not.

His Worship stated that if the defence were going to say in extenuation that the "boy" served the beer without the knowledge of Mr. Ogilvie, then whether defendant was there or not was very important.

BLINDNESS DUE TO "SLIMMING"

The effects of one of the most recent "glimming" treatments on the eyes of patients, in some cases ending in blindness, is giving anxiety in the United States.

The treatment in question depends on the use of the drug dinitrophenol. One of the unexpected results of its use has been the production of a rapidly developing cataract of the eyes.

Although vitamin C has been used by one doctor with success in treatment of the cataract so produced, the aspect of the matter which is chiefly regarded as disquieting is that a large proportion of those using dinitrophenol "slimmers" are doing so without medical advice.

Commenting on the danger, the current issue of the "British Medical Journal" points out that the use of dinitrophenol in the treatment of obesity has gone to such

AN EASY WAY TO MAKE MONEY

Bogus Postman Gets His Deserts

Before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday, an unemployed seaman, Lo Ting Hoi, residing at 29 New Street, was charged with (a) impeding the mails with the intention of obtaining reward, and (b) trying to obtain money by false pretences.

The defendant pleaded "Not guilty" to both charges.

The first witness called for the prosecution was Tze Mui, a married woman, residing at 19 Tsung Sau Street, who stated that on the Nov. 4 at 4 p.m. she heard someone knocking at the door and on opening it she saw the defendant alone. He (defendant) produced a letter which he said was for Leung Pak, a married woman also staying at the same house and demanded 50 cents which he said was for his trouble in delivering the letter. Witness then asked him to come in and wait as the woman he was looking for was out. Defendant demurred and asked witness to give him the money and to collect it from the supposed addressee when she returned. Witness replied that she had no cash on hand to give him and defendant then threatened to assault her. Witness being alone in the house called out and the defendant ran down the stairs, dropping the letter as he ran.

PREVIOUS ATTEMPT

Another witness stated that on the day in question he was walking along Ko Shing Street when he saw the last witness giving chase to the defendant who was a few yards in front. He stopped the defendant and asked him what all the trouble was about, and defendant said that nothing was the matter. At this stage the last witness came up and accused the defendant of stealing a letter. He was then searched but no letter was found on his person, but a small boy came up with the letter stating that he found it on the door of the first witness' house. They then proceeded to the police station. On the way another man also staying at the same house, but on the second floor, came up and asked the defendant if he was the same man who came to his house a fortnight ago with a letter which he alleged was from Canton and demanded 20 cents for his trouble. The defendant denied.

GOT THE WORST OF IT

Defendant took the stand and stated that on the days in question he left the house at 12 p.m. and went to the Yat Lam Tea House for some refreshments. He left the tea house at 1.15 and returned home, staying there until approximately 4.10 p.m. when he left for a walk before dinner. He stated that he got as far as Tsung Sau St. when the first witness and two other persons came up to him and accused him of stealing a letter. He told her that she was mad and also pointed out to her that she might have been mistaken. Thereupon the first witness struck him and he retaliated but the others set upon him and being an unequal fight and as he was getting the worst of it, he took to his heels, when he was caught by Lui Cheung. A constable then came on the scene and took him to the station.

Before passing sentence, Inspector Tyler, prosecution, pointed out that tampering with mail-boxes was a serious offence, as in that way criminals and bad characters could obtain valuable information concerning money matters.

The defendant was found guilty on both charges and was fined $15 on the first charge or in default 2 weeks imprisonment. On the second charge he was sentenced to 2 weeks imprisonment without the option of a fine.

greater lengths in the United States than in England.

"Young adult and middle-aged patients who have been taking dinitrophenol" it is stated, "and after a time blurring of vision which rapidly goes on to blindness from complete lens opacity. When fully developed the opaque lens does not differ in appearance from senile cataract. Apparently the eye is not involved otherwise."

Remedial treatment with vitamin C, it is explained, or, if that is not available, or if that is not sufficient, the observation that decreasing amounts of this vitamin were found in the lenses of the eyes with advancing age and in cataract formation. Neuritis, another symptom of dinitrophenol poisoning, is also stated to respond to vitamin treatment.

FORGED NOTES

Sentence of two and a half years' hard labour was passed upon Tam Siu-hong, unemployed, by the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, at the Criminal Sessions yesterday, when defendant was charged with uttering a forged $50 note of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China.

Defendant was found guilty on Tuesday by the jury, but His Lordship deferred passing sentence because there was the question of restitution to the complainant who was said to have been defrauded of $40.

Mr. E. H. Williams, Assistant Attorney-General prosecuted, and the jury comprised of the following: Messrs. L. J. Jack (foreman), G. T. May, Loong Tam-yin, E. J. Sulzbach, Tsoi Wing-kai, G. Watson and I. S. Castro. Mr. Leo d'Almada, Jr., appeared for the defendant on the instructions of Mr. H. A. de B. Botelho.

"When the hearing was resumed yesterday, Mr. d'Almada told His Lordship that his client was not in a position to make restitution. His relatives had been approached on the matter, but despite the fact that they had been told it would have a bearing on the offence, they refused to do so. Mr. d'Almada further stated that the accused's inability to make restitution should not be held against him as it was not in his power to do so.

His Lordship remarked that the question of restitution was not important in view of the fact that accused had volunteered to do so when he was being brought to the Police Station.

ANOTHER CASE

Charged with uttering a forged $10 note of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China at the Wing Lung hardware shop at No. 5 Hillier Street on October 24 last, Wong Sam-mul, a married woman, 30 years of age, was sentenced to three years' hard labour by Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell in the other Court.

Mr. W. J. Lockhart-Smith, Assistant Crown Solicitor, appeared for the prosecution, and the accused was not legally represented. The jury comprised Messrs. A. Brostedt (foreman), C. L. Rocha, E. Joffe, Ip Chung-shu, T. Redmond, Pang Fuk-chuen and L. Gardner.

IGNORING ORDER

Before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday, Tam Chun Man, 115, Bonham Strand East was summoned as landlord or agent of 50 Lower Lascar Row, for unlawfully allowing the premises to be used as a brothel.

Sub-Inspector E. Thorpe who prosecuted, said that according to the Land Office, the property was registered in the defendant's name.

Mr. S. Ng Quinn, for the defence, stated that defendant was the attorney of five joint owners who were at present in Taiwan.

The case was adjourned until November 23.

Li Tim, aged 22, unemployed, who was charged with the unlawful possession of 20 dozen towels at Hillier Street, was fined $15 or three weeks' hard labour by Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday.

Charged with attempted larceny from the person of Li Hung at Hollywood Road, Yu Cho Chi, aged 19, unemployed, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to three months' hard labour by Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday.

Detective Sergeant Fowle stated complainant was watching a theatrical performance when defendant came and stood on his right side and attempted to pick his pocket. He was caught in the act by a district watchman. Defendant was found to have been bound over previously but his bond had expired.

Capt. G. Findsen, of No. 510, The Peak, was fined $5 by Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday when he appeared on a summons of allowing his dog out in Upper Albert Road unmuzzled on October 13 last.

The constable stated that he saw the dog unmuzzled for a period of half-an-hour.

Defendant stated that on the day in question he was moving house, and the dog had managed to run out. The dog was a very difficult animal to control, and it had since been destroyed.

Lai Yee, 23, unemployed was sentenced to six weeks' hard labour by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday when he was charged with the theft of 40 kerosene oil drums from a vacant piece of ground at Chatham Road near the Public Works Department on November 2 last.

NOBLE EFFORTS TO PROMOTE PEACE

League Of Nations' Society
Competition Results

PRAISEWORTHY WORK ON EXHIBIT

An imposing array of sketches and posters of a high artistic order were viewed by a very large crowd at the Cathedral Hall yesterday evening on the occasion of the distribution of prizes by Lady Southern, O.B.E., wife of his Excellency Sir Thomas Southern, to the winners of the Peace Poster Competition organised by the League of Nations Society.

Before the exhibition was opened at 4.30 p.m. a large number of people was there looking over the wonderful collection of exhibits which on the whole had for its theme the desire for peace.

A very excellent suggestion was put forward by a member of the gathering, Mr. Edwards, at the conclusion of the function when in congratulating the League of Nations on its splendid efforts the speaker suggested that photographic blocks of all the exhibits be made and sent to the different Governments of the world. This suggestion was heartily received and Sir William Shenton in reply said that the Propaganda Committee would be entrusted with the scheme.

PEACE AND HAPPINESS

In his capacity as chairman Sir William Shenton said:

We have the pleasure of meeting to-day for the purpose of distributing the prizes to the successful competitors in connection with the Peace Poster Competition and Lady Southern will shortly very kindly make the distribution.

The holding of this competition arose from a decision in April last of the Council of our League of Nations' Society who came to the conclusion that the holding of such a competition would undoubtedly further the cause of peace and bring home to a large number of people in a practical form the horrors of war and all that it entails.

The literature propaganda and membership committee were asked to carry out the project and the substantial success which has been achieved is largely due to the activities of Miss Baxter, Miss Bascombe, and Mrs. Griffin who have also been ably assisted by Mr. George She and Mr. Thomas Tam.

To-day we appear to be back again to the year 1914. Two independent nations, both members of the League of Nations are in the throes of a terrible war. One has been declared the aggressor. Every means of slaughter which human ingenuity can invent is being used. Article XVII of the covenant is about to be brought into force, the support sanctions will receive is the subject of negotiation, and the result is still a matter of uncertainty. This however is certain, that the result of the war can only bring pain, sorrow and economic ruin to the combatants.

LOVE OF CONCORD

All attempts to substitute reason for force—arbitration for war—in the adjustment of international controversies must depend upon an enlightened public opinion. Men must be imbued with the love of concord. To accomplish this the virtues of peace must be taught in the pulpits, on the platform, in the schools and universities, through diplomacy and the press. The heroism of moderation and self-control must be dwelt upon as we have been accustomed to dwell upon the glories of war. The suggestion must be ridiculed that without periodical strife men become weak and inefficient, and produce an impoverished civilization. The dynamic qualities of peace must be emphasized. It must be shown that in order to win the victories of peace, men must be as resolute and aggressive and courageous as they have hitherto been in gaining military distinction. Does it require less courage, a smaller degree of initiative, and a feebler imagination to carry on the world's undertakings in commerce and industry, in social betterment and in the highest pursuit of statecraft, than are required to fight destructive battles and to win costly victories?

ROMANCE OF PEACE

We hear a great deal of the romance of war, but is there not also a romance of peace? The romance of happy homes, smiling faces and joyous lives, of fruitful fields and populous cities; the romance of strong people, conscious of their strength, but intent on practising all the amenities of life as they strive to excel in science and literature and the arts. The highest manifestation of power is for a nation which possesses strength to refuse to exercise it in passion and violence, realising that there is greater virtue in restraint than in excess. Wars have certainly not been fought through the centuries to perpetuate war, but to secure enduring peace.

Nothing that has been said should be construed as a condemnation of all past wars, some of which have been necessary and just, or in derogation of many of the world's greatest military leaders, who have exhibited so splendidly, qualities of generosity and magnanimity, of sacrifice and chivalry, and courage. The very training of the soldier, in as much as he is taught the value of discipline, the need of obedience, the disgrace of cowardice, is the training which is demanded in times of peace, and it can be secured by a faithful discharge of all the obligations of citizenship as fully as in the practice of war. Armies and navies will doubtless always be maintained, but it is hoped that they will gradually grow smaller and become less burdensome as the love of peace becomes the dominating passion in the lives of men.

WORLD IS BETTER AND WISER

No one abhors war more than the man who has been impelled to follow it from a sense of patriotic duty. If, after long centuries of strife and bloodshed, we have not hit upon a better way of settling international disputes, "hitting" through the argument of numbers and guns and ships, we had better frankly confess that civilization is a failure and that the intellectual and moral progress of which we boast is simply an illusion. We believe, however, that the world is growing better and wiser, more gentle and more just. We feel now, in the words of Browning, that "we may come to know the meaning of the middle of accord." Between the British Empire, as represented by the Dominion of Canada, and the great republic of America, stretches a frontier of nearly 4,000 miles—the longest frontier separating any two nations in the world. Throughout its whole length this great frontier is unfortified. No armed men are stationed to guard it; no fortifications have been built to protect it; no fleets float on the vast lakes, great inland seas—which form part of the boundary. A few small obsolete gunboats remain on the lakes, not as the symbols of armed force, but only intended to prevent smuggling. There is a Treaty with a Board to settle boundary disputes and it has worked most satisfactorily for many years.

VOTE OF THANKS

Imagine the condition of Europe to-day if the frontiers which separate its various countries, now a mass of menacing forts and stations for thousands of armed men, were as unprotected as the far-stretching frontier, extending from the Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific, which separates Canada from the United States. We should have a state of things which would transform Europe, lift from the peoples the crushing burden of armaments, and bring us nearer an era of international peace.

With an example such as this before the world surely sane reason will yet get the upper hand. In conclusion it gives me the greatest pleasure to propose a very hearty vote of thanks to Lady

Southern for so kindly coming here to-day and distributing the prizes, also for the kind interest she has taken in the competition and we are also indebted to her for the gift of two of the prizes. Sir Robert Ho Tung, is also going to speak in eulogy of Lady Southern.

We are greatly indebted to the Cathedral Chaplain for the loan of the Cathedral hall. We are grateful to the judges for adjudicating on the posters and we are grateful to Miss Baxter, Miss Bascombe and Miss Griffin for organising the details of the competition. We are indebted to the Press, both European and Chinese for the publicity they have given us and particularly to the "Hong Kong Telegraph" for the loan of screens and other fixtures. We wish to thank the donors of the various prizes and in particular Sir Robert Ho Tung for the beautiful cup he has presented. We are most appreciative of the kindness of the Cathedral Balminton Club for having waived their right to the Cathedral hall to-day in our favour. We tender our thanks to Messrs. Lane Crawford Limited for receiving the entries, for displaying the prizes and for their assistance in the organising of the competition.

A ROUSING SPEECH

Lady Southern after distributing the prizes in her speech said:

Mr. She in his very kindly worded invitation to distribute the prizes to-day asked me to make a rousing speech on Peace. I wish I could. I feel so deeply about Peace that it is difficult to speak about it. Besides Sir William Shenton has covered the ground so thoroughly that I feel my remarks are superfluous. But I will not tax your patience long.

Personally like tens of thousands of others who know what the Great War meant—the very word "war" conjures up a vision of absolute misery and despair—a time when if it had not been for work to do and the hope that the sacrifice and the sorrow and the hideous waste of human life would lead to a world without war it would have been impossible to keep sane for four long years. Sad has been the disillusionment. Over twenty years have passed since the war began and we find depression, mistrust and actual warfare rampant to-day. The League of Nations is struggling gallantly to bring about a settlement of world affairs and its efforts are perhaps a ray of light in the darkness. But out of the ashes of the war have arisen tyrannies which set back the clock of civilisation more surely than any other influence. Men are not allowed to think for themselves, they are told to go to war and they go to war, they are told to hate and they hate. I read a passage written by James Agate the other day which said:

"Broadly speaking both men and women have their lives in relation to the lives of other men and women upon reason. But nations are different, their conduct relative to one another is based upon unreason as August 1914 generously proved."

CONFLICTING INTERESTS

The ordinary man and his wife, and it is of these that the greater portion of the world's population is composed, do not want war, just as they are not keen on running their heads against a brick wall because they know it will hurt. But they are dragged into war, ruined by war, through the conflicting interests of their own and other countries.

So the one thing to concentrate upon, the one thing that may bring peace to the world, is to make men and women and children peace-minded. You are urged to become air-minded but it is far, far more necessary to be peace-minded with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your might.

While the wealth of the world is being poured out in armaments and some of the best brains of the world are concentrating on dealing out death in horrible forms, science waits ready to teach man how to live in comfort and health and art waits to show him how to live in beauty. People will tell you blandly and stupidly that there must be war for there has always been war. You might as well say that people must always be swept away by small-pox, that malaria is inevitable, that infant mortality is unavoidable. To the dustbin with such nonsense! During the last fifty years the average life of man has been prolonged through sanitation and the knowledge of preventive medicine and modern surgery. For what object do we preserve these lives? To slay them by all the most diabolical means? To say that war must always exist is about as sensible as saying that men burnt each other at the stake to prove the gentle teaching of Christ and consequently we must continue to burn those whose opinions do not accord with ours.

GLORIOUS TO LIVE

There are still a number of people determined to look forward and not back. Can we not concentrate all the commonsense of the world on this business of ending war? First of all let it be considered more glorious to live for one's country than to die for it. We do not minimise the heroism and the self-sacrifice of those beloved ones who answered the call in 1914. They are enshrined in our hearts and their names live for ever. But we, the disillusioned, see that they were sacrificed in vain and no one should condone further sacrifices to this hideous god of war, this god of unreason. No one has put the case more forcibly than that wonderful man, Dick Sheppard: "When youth is again being taught the glory of war it is well to remind ourselves that in reality war is a purely devilish, bestial affair, having nothing whatever to do with patriotism save for the hardness of men's hearts. We cannot any more think of war except as a damnable arrest of development and decency."

We ourselves have no quarrel with the citizens of any other country. Cannot the citizens of the world, the ordinary men and women combine in such numbers, in such strength, in such friendship, that they will insist on no more of this wholesale murder, but by sacrifice and co-operation develop together and prosper together? By the constant dropping of water on a stone the hard rock is hollowed, by the constant demand for peace, the policies of the world may be changed, if not in our day then in the years to come.

Then shall be achieved what Dr. Alfred Whitehead aptly describes as:—"The Harmony of Harmonies which calms destructive turbulence and completes civilisation. Thus a society is to be termed civilised whose members participate in the five qualities: Truth, Beauty, Adventure, Art and Peace."

SHADOWS OF WAR

Sir Robert Ho Tung, in thanking Lady Southern for gracing the function that afternoon said:

I count it both a privilege and an honour to be asked to attend this Peace Poster Exhibition and Prize-Giving. We are meeting to-day under the shadow of war or threat of war in one part of the world or another. You may therefore be tempted to wonder why an important moment such as this should be chosen to sing the virtues of "peace on earth, good will towards men." But a moment's reflection will, I hope, convince you that the moment when the peace of the world is disturbed, is the time when peace-lovers everywhere should band themselves together solidly for the maintenance of international peace and harmony. It was a consideration such as this which led me gladly to accept the kind invitation of the League of Nations' Society to come here

CORRESPONDENCE

"The Hong Kong Singers"

Sir—I am informed by the Cathedral authorities that the collection at our recent on Armistice night amounted to $505.50. This amount will be accounted for as follows:—

	$ cts.
Grant to Hong Kong Society for the Protection of Children	200.00
Grant to St. Dunstan's £10 (say)	150.00
Ye Olde Printerie (posters and programmes)	81.50
Donation to Cathedral authorities	40.00
Sundry expenses (including honorarium to the Cathedral organist)	34.00
	$505.50

On behalf of the Hong Kong Singers I wish to thank the Cathedral authorities and the Hong Kong Union Church for facilities for rehearsals and for the service; the daily and weekly Press for their kindness in giving us such splendid publicity; Ye Olde Printerie for their expert help in the design and make up of programmes and posters, and for their generosity in the matter of charges; and, finally, the members of the vast audience for their wonderful encouragement of our efforts. The "atmosphere" was such that we, as a choir were able (I almost wrote impelled) to give a rendering of the two glorious but difficult works which certainly exceeded our own estimate of what we could do!

If I may trespass still further on your space, I should like to point out to the more permanent residents in the Colony that at present over half of the Hong Kong Singers are connected with the Fighting Services. We who are shortly leaving Hong Kong would like to think that when we return for another "tour" we shall find the Singers still going strong. For this to be so, the "permanents" must come in and help in greater numbers.

We are hoping early in February next to give a rendering of Handel's Messiah (with organ and orchestra), and rehearsals of this great work have already begun.

Singers who wish to join our ranks (not just for the "Messiah" please!) should communicate with Mr. Anderson Miller (Tel. 50283).

Yours, etc.,

A. S. KING,

Chairman.

Hong Kong, November 13, 1935.

this afternoon. A similar reflection must have been present in Lady Southern's mind when she consented to grace to-day's proceedings with her presence. Lady Southern's abiding interest in the cause of peace is as well known as her interest in the Girl Guide Movement which contributes so effectively to international union and concord. In fact if we analyse the long list of public activities with which the name of Lady Southern is identified, we shall readily see that, underlying them all, pervades a profound desire to better the relationship between man and man. Ladies and gentlemen, without this desire—a desire which knows no caste, creed or colour—no one can successfully work for the cause of world peace. Imbued with the finest spirit of the humanist, deepened by a poet's sensitiveness to all that is beautiful, good and true, Lady Southern's sojourn with us in Hong Kong has appreciably deepened the sense of social responsibility among all sections of the community. I heartily endorse the expression of appreciation which my friend Sir William Shenton has just made to Lady Southern for her presence here to-day. I have always wondered how Lady Southern finds the time to do so much good. I have often wanted to know what is the secret of her vitality which enables her to identify herself so sympathetically and so completely with practically every deserving cause in Hong Kong. I hope Lady Southern will tell us.

WAR AND PEACE

Ladies and gentlemen, the problem of war and peace has interested me for many years and I have become convinced that a desire for peace is not enough. We must organise for peace. This

GENERALS OFFER TO FIGHT AGGRESSORS

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Nov. 13. Generals Chiang Kwang-nai and Tsai Ting-kai, heroes of the Shanghai war, have indicated to the Central Authorities that they will fight foreign aggressors even if they have to serve as buck privates. Their rank is that of a full fledged general, but they will be glad to get back into uniform again.

Their offer of services is likely to be accepted. In the past they differed with the National Government on whether foreign aggression should be resisted, but now the whole nation is determined not to yield further to Japanese aggression. Though Generals Tsai and Chiang took part in the Poochow revolt, their record in Shanghai eclipses their subsequent secessionist movement.

Generals Yen Hsi-chun, Feng Yu-hsiang and Li Lih-chun are in favour of reinstating Tsai Ting-kai and Chiang Kwang-nai. Mr. Hu Han-min also approves this view. Mr. Hu will shortly leave France for China and will become President of the Executive Yuan or some other important post. Before his arrival, Mr. Chou Leu, Chancellor of Sun Yat-sen University, will act for Mr. Hu.

LOANS TO CHINA

The British Government's proposal in early March to Japan, the United States and France that consideration be given to financial assistance for China, which appeared at that time to be on the verge of collapse because of the baneful effects of the American silver programme, was not long in breeding rumours of loans to China, some of them allegedly sought by China, and others allegedly pressed upon her. That was the diversity of opinion prevailing at the time. Later the talk of a joint international loan gave way to talk of separate loans by Great Britain, the United States and Japan, with the possibility of a British loan in various forms, receiving the most persistent notice.

Japanese propaganda at the time was not slow to make capital of the situation, and when Sir Frederick Leith-Ross was sent out by the British Government, a veiled threat was held out that "Japan's Hands-Off-China" policy must be respected and that interference in the euphemistic Sino-Japanese relationship, or assistance to China in any shape or form would not be tolerated.

Now that China has taken a determined stand in her monetary reform, Japan once again accuses Great Britain of having assisted China in the shape of a huge loan. How bitterly Japan feels in the matter and to what extent is the accusation true may well be gleaned from Reuters cables from Tokyo and London which appeared in the "Daily Press" yesterday. The Tokyo cable said:

"Following consultations between the Ministries concerned, it is understood that Japan will shortly reply formally to Britain concerning a proposed international loan to China."

The reply will express regret that China currency reform, which greatly affects Sino-Japanese economic relations, has been carried out without prior consultation with Japan.

Further, the reply will declare that reform based on foreign credits will weaken China's power of self-rehabilitation and sow the seeds of foreign control, for which reason Japan is not in a position to agree to the proposed loan."

The message from London expressed surprise and reiterated that China has not reformed her currency at Britain's instigation, nor with British help.

Taken all in all, we admit that the present situation is one fraught with misgivings and doubts. The presence of Sir Frederick Leith-Ross in China, coupled with the Nationalist Government should be taking this psychological moment to reform her currency, is sufficient ground for doubts. But what we fail to understand is the tyrannical attitude of the Japanese Government. It takes for granted that China is an integral part of Japan, and as such, other powers are debarred from any intercourse with her, politically, financially or economically.

We are of the opinion that Japanese diplomacy has no peer in the art of euphemism. "Sino-Japanese Co-operation" sounds very well, but one knows that it will be enforced at the revolver point. This will be amply borne out in the course of a few days when Japan will, no doubt, apply the thumb screw on China for the shooting of a Japanese mariner in Chapel a few days ago, and for alleged offences in the North.

Justly or unjustly Japan has chosen the moment well. The nations which signed the Nine-Power Treaty at Washington guaranteed China's territorial integrity, but they, like the League of Nations, are preoccupied with the African war. Internally, China is in no condition to resist military aggression.

Therefore as far as we can see it, China's salvation lies in her prompt decision to join the League. The very fact that Japan is no longer in it makes it all the more imperative that the Far East should be represented, for no League of Nations could rightly be termed such when 470 millions of people were not represented.

PLANES STILL SEARCHING

Melrose Anxiety Dispelled

London, Nov. 13.

James Melrose, Australian air man, who has been engaged in the search for his fellow-countrymen, Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith and his co-pilot J. T. Pethybridge, was himself missing for some hours yesterday, having made a forced landing on a narrow beach near a small Siamese village on the Malay Peninsula. He was uninjured.

The Air Commodore in charge of the search for the missing airmen has paid a warm tribute to Melrose's courage, but has asked him to withdraw from the search because of the great hazards attaching to it.

The search so far has been unsuccessful, but is continuing.

A Canberra message states that the Australian House of Representatives is contributing £1,000 towards the cost of sending a private plane to carry on the search in the Siamese and Malayan jungles.

NANKING AND CANTON

Text Of Telegrams Published

Nanking, Nov. 13.

Significance is attached in China to circles to the telegrams recently exchanged between Mr. Hsiao Fu-chien and several elder statesmen here, the text of which was published to-day.

Mr. Hsiao's telegram, addressed to Messrs. Lin Sen, Yu Yu-jen, Chang Ching-kiang, Tsai Yuan-pai and Chang Chi, is considered as a further sign of Canton's encouraging response to Nanking's olive branch.

The telegram declared that the South-west leaders concurred with the views and policy of the Central Government as explained by Messrs. Tai Chi-tao and Ma Chao-chun who visited Canton a week ago, and expressing the conviction that the national crisis was only solvable with internal solidarity.

Mr. Hsiao said that the present emphasis placed on this essential principle augured well for the revival of the party and nation.

A short but fitting reply has been sent to Canton.

CHINESE WOMAN ASSASSIN

Marshal Sun Killed In Tientsin

Tientsin, Nov. 13.

Marshal Sun Chuan-fang was shot dead this afternoon by a Chinese woman at a Buddhist meeting in the Chinese City.

He was military chief of Shanghai until 1927 when he was driven out by General Chiang Kai-shek, and he was one of the last independent warlords to succumb to the nationalist drive from Canton.

The assassin is reported to have whipped out a revolver and poured in several shots which immediately proved fatal.

The woman quietly surrendered to the police. It is believed that she is related to a general alleged to have been executed by Marshal Sun in Shantung.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY AT MONGKOK

Armed robberies are still prevalent in the Kowloon district, the latest incident occurring in the Mongkok district late yesterday afternoon when a Chinese was held up at the point of a revolver and relieved of cash.

At about 4 p.m. in Sai Yee Street, Lau Wen Pui, the 23-year-old victim of No. 115 Fuk Wing Street, second floor, in his report stated that whilst he was walking near Mongkok Road he was suddenly accosted by two men from behind. With the point of a revolver dug firmly into his ribs he was ordered to hand over his cash. A sum of $17 was taken before they made a hasty flight.

THROUGH THE OFFICE WINDOW

(By C. L. C.)

A visiting doctor to this Colony made a comparison of Hong Kong and Ball on Tuesday at the Rotary weekly luncheon. I was in tremor lest he should speak of Ice House Street. The speaker apparently did not have the occasion to pass through this narrow and noisy street, or that he was too merciful to us. Anyway the eye-sore is there. It is a disgrace to see so many chairs and ricksha-coolies squatting in a busy thoroughfare; gambling away for all they are worth and generally making themselves a nuisance to the public, and to the businessman occupying offices in that locality.

If a ricksha and chair stand must be provided for the convenience of the passengers to an from Kowloon side, I cannot understand why a policeman is not stationed there to keep the coolies in order. Perhaps it is not too late to do something in that direction.

Our Government, like the good Samaritan, always come to our rescue when danger threatens. It has provided us with nickel five and ten cent pieces and also paper money to relieve the situation. That is all to the good, but the pertinent question may be asked why such a good scheme has not been thought of before, or why no necessary precaution has been taken to check the outflow of silver from the Colony. I suppose the lesson learned in 1932 when a Japanese family was murdered by Chinese mobs before the Police realised that such danger could exist in a British Colony, has by now sunk in the water of Lethe.

And one may be permitted to ask what is the Government going to do—or is doing behind the scene—to check the unwarranted daily increase in the price of practically all commodities. Goods now in the stock of our shop-keepers were bought at a cheap price and paid for at a low exchange rate. Is there any legitimate reason for them to put prices to so high a level as they are going now? I am not conversant with the law but I think such method of profiteering can be checked if only the Government would condescend to do so.

Our magistrates are human and numerous. It is good for them to keep smiling or causing other people to smile. Their work is onerous, and it is just as well that they relax themselves by handing down advices from the Bench. Therefore I was not surprised when I in my daily "news sheets" (with apologies to Peppy) that one of them had made a long discourse on the evils of keeping dogs, or keeping them for some friends. Well, all I can say is that such advice specially coming from so eminent a source must be treated seriously—but not too seriously, I hope. We want our canine friends, and I think they are more faithful than some of the other friends we have. And we do not want to exterminate dogs wholesale. Whilst on this subject, I think that there are several persons in Hong Kong as well as in other parts of the world who would want to keep cockerels, or even roosters, preferably the Leghorn breed, and if these early risers disturb the people next door, certainly it is too much to expect that we must do some "exterminating" in this direction. If any killing is to be done, let us begin with the roosters, and the joy-riders tooting their horns in the wee hours of the morning.

Now a few words about the art of advertising. It is an art in the hands of experts, but it becomes an eye-sore when mushroom advertising agencies begin to advertise and display the messages of tradesmen. The Colony is placarded with enough ugly posters and hoardings, and something must be done to check this evil practice. Perhaps the Travel Association may do something about it. Businessmen must be taught that if they intend to have their messages displayed effectively and artistically so as to attract the buyers, they should leave this part of the business to those who are responsible to handle it. Newspapers afford the best advertising medium, while outdoor advertising is also good if properly looked after by reliable advertising agencies. It may cost a little more, but it pays.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

The St. John Ambulance Association Informal Dance and Bridge and Mahjong Drive is to be held at 9 p.m. at St. John Headquarters, Tai Hang Road, Causeway Bay, on November 30.

During the week ended on Nov. 9, eight cases of diphtheria (five deaths), six cases of enteric fever (five deaths) and one case of paratyphoid were reported to the Health Authorities. For the 24 hours ended on Tuesday, the cases reported were small-pox (1) and diphtheria (2).

Two firemen were injured when members of the Kowloon Fire Brigade were engaged in a practice drill on their compound opposite the Fire Station yesterday morning. The unfortunate men missed their footing after they had ascended a ladder of one of the appliances. They fell from a height of fifteen feet, and were immediately rushed to hospital. The extent of their injuries has not yet been ascertained.

Members and friends of Kowloon Union Church are asked to note that the social arranged for Friday evening, November 15, to welcome the Rev. and Mrs. J. D. MacLean will not take place.

Mr. Salvatore D'Asis, of the D'Asis Studio, has returned to the Colony having completed the sculptural work in connection with the new hotel at Shum Chun. His photographic colouring work and re-touching processes are, of course, well-known locally, and his services are again at the disposal of clients of the studio.

Suffering from injuries received whilst working on a cargo boat off the Praya, a woman, 19 Mui, 33, was admitted to the Government Civil Hospital yesterday.

Alleged to have been struck by his brother who has absconded, Leung Hing, of 7, St. Francis Yard, was sent to the hospital yesterday suffering from a chopper wound.

The following forthcoming weddings are announced:—Mr. Stanley George Smith, police officer, Central Police Station, and Miss Freda Raymond, of Wembley House, Wembley London; Mr. Oscar Guttinger, engineer, 20 Ashley Road, Kowloon, and Miss Margaret Amanda Drysdale, of 152 Prince Edward Road.

The Young Australia League party at an invitation inspected Mountain Lodge, the Peak residence of H.E. the Officer Administering the Government yesterday morning. The girls drove up about 11 o'clock and were conducted round the house and grounds by Capt. W. J. R. Cragg, A.D.C. to His Excellency.

In aid of the funds for the upkeep of the various free schools in control, the Ys Men's Club of Hong Kong will hold a dinner-dance at the Roof Garden of the Hong Kong Hotel on Sunday, November 24.

PASSENGERS MAROONED ON ROCK

Manila, Nov. 13.

Two people are dead and two are missing, but all the rest of the passengers and crew of the Silver-hazel, which grounded on a rock near Luzon, are safe aboard the U.S.S. Peary and arrive at Manila to-morrow morning.

The survivors on the rock did not know that army bombers were coming with food, and decided this morning to risk leaving the rock in improvised lifeboats and rafts. They were successfully picked up by the Peary.

The dead are Mrs. N. Williams, a passenger from Los Angeles, and Mr. Bernard Macpherson, an apprentice member of the crew. The missing persons are Captain Lennard, Master of the Silverhazel, and one other member of the crew.

OBITUARY

Sister Louise Cornelius

News has been received from America of the death of Sister Marie Louise Cornelius, of the order of St. Maur, a member of a well-known Malayan family, who died at Elwood, Indiana, in September at the age of 88 years.

Born in Malacca in 1847, the deceased Sister joined the Order at the age of 18 and at that time passed through Hong Kong on her way to join her Order in Yokohama. Here she remained for a time and the need for financial aid to build a new convent before the "quake" brought her to America, where her charm, energy and indefatigable courage and personality soon enabled her to collect the necessary amount for the work. During the time President Taft was in power, Sister Cornelius was no stranger at the White House where she was a friend of many people there. She had revisited the Colony on several other occasions to see her relatives here.

She is survived by a sister, Sister Josephine of Penang; a brother, Mr. B. M. A. Cornelius of Singapore, and many nieces and nephews and among them are: Dr. E. L. de Souza of the Hong Kong University, Mr. L. P. de Souza, M.C.H. late of the Rural Board, Singapore, Bro. Justin (Penang), Mr. H. M. de Souza, J. P. (Malacca), Dr. Granville de Souza (late of H.K. and now London), Mr. P. F. de Souza (later-at-law, Malaya), Dr. Mills D'Cotta, Captain Alois Cornelius, Rev. Father Boris Adamov of the Maryknoll Mission, Mr. J. Cornelius (Singapore), Rev. Lewis Adamov, Sister St. Winifred of the Order of St. Maur (Tob.)

ELECTION SPEAKERS MEET BITTER OPPOSITION

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald
Denied Hearing
ROWDYISM IN CERTAIN
CONSTITUENCIESKeen Interest In Issues
Of Electorate

London, November 13. To-day marks the final stage of the brief election campaign and activity in the constituencies is intense. Most candidates have a long succession of speaking engagements to fulfil this afternoon and evening and the canvass of the voters is being continued until the very eve of poll.

The constituencies are flooded with election literature of all kinds including posters, handbills and circulars, and exceptional demands have been made on the Post Office services through which millions of communications have been delivered.

With some unfortunate exceptions the campaign has been fought calmly, but in certain constituencies, notably those in which National Labour and Liberal National candidates are in the field, there has been a good deal of rowdiness.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, in particular, has encountered bitter opposition at Seaham Harbour and he and Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, Secretary of State for Colonies, have on several occasions found it difficult, if not impossible, to obtain a hearing.

Sir Godfrey Collins, Liberal National, has been similarly treated in his constituency in Greenock, Scotland and Mr. Walter (Rundman?) was denied a hearing at Seaham.

Sir Austen Chamberlain also faced a noisy meeting at Birmingham last night.

These were, however, exceptional occurrences and all but a very small number of speakers have been given attentive hearing. The meetings have been very largely attended and keen interest has been displayed in the issues before the electorate.

PREMIER'S APPEAL

London, Nov. 12. On the eve of the British general election, final appeals to the electors were made by the leaders of the two main parties.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, urged the voters to help the Government to continue its work of national restoration with peace and security in the forefront of his programme.

The Prime Minister pledged the Government to work faithfully for security at home and the peace of the world; and he promised to spend not a penny more on Great Britain's defence forces than was absolutely necessary.

They would continue to strive, said Mr. Baldwin, for an international agreement for the reduction of armaments.

"In a world where collective security has been made a sure protection against aggression" such disarmament was possible, he said.

LABOUR'S PLATFORM

Major C. R. Attlee, the Labour leader, also delivered a message to the public on the eve of the poll.

He declares that the Labour Party stands for peace, democracy and social justice, and bases its foreign and home policies upon the practical application of the doctrine of the Brotherhood of Man.

"If we all give our best victory will be ours," he concludes.

GOVERNMENT WILL WIN

Election prophets mostly agree that the Government will have a working majority. Estimates of that majority vary from 100 to 170. The chairman of Sir John Simon's Liberal National group, in charge of organisation for that section, forecasts a Government majority of 127.

The Government, he says, will have 371 seats. Of these 325 will be Conservative, Liberal Nationalists will have 39, National Labour 6 and one Independent will succeed Labour.

On the other side of the House, will have 230 seats and Liberals, also in opposition, will have fourteen, he estimates.

ANGLO-ITALIAN
DISCUSSIONNo Concrete Result
Achieved

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, November 13, 4.30 p.m.)

Rome, Nov. 13. Signor Mussolini's conversation with the British Ambassador, Sir Eric Drummond, on Tuesday—the third within a fortnight—yielded no concrete result according to political circles here which state that the Ambassador in reply to Italy's increasingly categorical demands for a reduction of the British Mediterranean Fleet stressed Italy's vast superiority in the air.

It is added that the Ambassador pointed out that the exports themselves admit this superiority has radically altered the aspect of the situation in the Mediterranean since it has diminished the value of several British strategic bases.

ANOTHER REPORT

Rome, Nov. 12. Sir Eric Drummond, the British Ambassador, and Signor Benito Mussolini, held further conversations to-day.

It is believed they discussed the question of a further withdrawal of Italian troops from Libya in return for the withdrawal of two British battalions from the Mediterranean.

Further meetings between the two will probably be held just after the British general election.

INCREASE IN
ARMAMENTSAustrian Intentions
Disclosed

Vienna, Nov. 13. A large increase in Austria's armaments in the near future was announced by Chancellor Schuschnigg in a speech at the Federal Diet.

General Zehner, under-Secretary of State, emphasised the necessity of acquiring more tanks and aeroplanes.

Dr. Berger-Waldenegg, Foreign Minister, defined the fundamental basis of Austrian foreign policy especially as regards fidelity to the League of Nations principles and declared that Austria had not acted to please any one country but only acted in the interests of her own people and trade.

UNABLE TO DETERMINE
SANCTIONS DATE

Geneva, Nov. 12. The Egyptian Government has notified the Committee of the Sanctions Conference that owing to the shortness of time the Egyptian Government has been so far unable to determine a date when economic and financial sanctions can come into force, therefore the Government would postpone making a formal declaration until it is able to inform the Committee of the Sanctions Conference when restrictive measures will be put into operation.

HEAVY LOSSES
REPORTEDItalians Attacked
In Mountains

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, November 13, 7.30 p.m.)

Addis Ababa, Nov. 13. Heavy fighting is reported from both the southern and northern fronts which is presumed to be the prelude to big battles. In the province of Ogaden the Italians have attacked near Anale with strong tank squadrons and other motorised formations, but according to despatches received here the Abyssinians, though only armed with rifles and shields, are offering desperate resistance.

Despite such tremendous odds they have already succeeded in capturing four enemy tanks as well as some armoured cars equipped with machine guns and serving for the transport of troops.

Italian losses are said to be heavy. On the northern front Abyssinian detachments under the command of Guebre Hiyot are reported to have attacked and annihilated the Italian advance guard entrenched in the mountains.

Thirty thousand troops under Sultan Mohammed Jajou have been despatched to Danakil region in order to reinforce the armies of the Abyssinian Crown Prince and Ras Kibade and to check the Italian advance.

The total Abyssinian forces in Danakil are stated to number 120,000. On Tuesday 40,000 men left there for Jijiga.

ETHIOPIANS CLAIM SUCCESS

Addis Ababa, Nov. 12. Ethiopian infantry, in heavy fighting near Dagabur, claim to have won a signal success against the Italian mechanised army, having put four tanks and three armoured cars out of action.

The four tanks, according to reports, were captured after a fierce struggle.

Official despatches from Anale, near Dagabur, on the southern front, confirm the success. They add that the Ethiopians, armed only with rifles, rushed the tanks in desperate fashion and faced a perfect storm of machine-gun fire from close range.

Three armoured cars were also put out of action, two of them being captured.

Six Italian officers and many rank and file were killed. There were many wounded on both sides.

From the subsequent wording of the despatch it would seem that the mechanised units mentioned, the captured tanks and armoured cars, were moving in support of infantry, for the Ethiopian reports state that the Italians have fled in disorder.

SUCCESS CONFIRMED

Harar, Nov. 13. The Abyssinians' success at Anale is officially confirmed. Twelve Italians were killed and a thousand native troops were taken prisoner, and six tanks were captured.

The Abyssinian southern army has begun a turning movement, marching along the Kenya frontier past Dolo, moving on Lughferandi and Moustahil, thus attacking the southwest Italian position and threatening communications. The Abyssinians are also fortifying the positions to the south of Jijiga.

Five Italian planes flew over Dagabur and bombed the village of Agar near Jijiga and one afterwards bombed lorries crowded with Abyssinians proceeding to the front on Jijiga road.

ROME COMMUNIQUE

Rome, Nov. 13. A communique states that the first army corps attacked Dessa linking up with the native army corps.

Overcoming strong enemy resistance, the second army corps reached Tekkaze line.

Aircraft verified enemy movements near Lake Ashanghi and north Ogaden.

FRANCE CONSIDERING
ITALIAN PROTESTMediation Efforts Still Possible

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, November 13, 4.30 p.m.)

Paris, November 13.

The Italian protest note against the application of economic sanctions by France was read by M. Laval at the Cabinet Council on Tuesday, and it is now being examined by the Foreign Office, which will also decide the question of whether a reply is to be given.

The general tone of the Italian note is considered moderate by diplomatic quarters here which express the belief that the continuation of M. Laval's mediation efforts are still possible although these have been made more difficult through "retaliatory sanctions" announced by Italy.

"Le Jour" declares that the note had been "very favourably received" at Quai d'Orsay where "the clear and moderate language of the document is generally acknowledged." The paper advocates that every country which has received the protest note should reply to the note separately and expresses the hope that the French Government which has done so much to prevent or at least modify the sanctions will reply to Italy directly.

The foreign political editor of "Le Oeuvre" asserts that the French Government will answer the Italian note before November 18 when the sanctions become effective.

The French reply, the paper says, will state that France is not dominated by unfriendly feelings towards Italy and will restrict herself to the application of Article 16 of the League Covenant.

ITALIAN REPRISALS

London, Nov. 12. The Italian note on sanctions, protesting against their application and threatening counter-measures against the embargo against Italian exports, has been received calmly in London.

The complaint contained in Italy's note that the Italian Government's memorandum to the League of Nations, in connection with the causes of the trouble in Ethiopia, had not been adequately examined, is held to be plainly contrary to facts. Arguments that the Co-ordinating Committee on sanctions had no locus standi are regarded as displaying a fundamental misconception of the relationship of states to the League of Nations.

In Geneva, the opinion is held that in addressing a note to the Powers involved, in the sanctions plan Italy has taken the only line open to her while she remains a member of the League. But it is generally felt that the question of her continued membership will be raised shortly.

STEEL BOOM IN
OCTOBEREighty-Year Record
Beaten

London, Nov. 13. Steel production statistics for October indicate that all records of the past eighty years have been well and truly beaten by the figure of 807,300 tons which was over 50,000 tons more than the previous highest figure in 1935 and 95,000 tons higher than the figure in October last year.

The fact that the present boom has taken place despite comparative depression in the shipbuilding industry is largely attributable to the expansion and demand in the engineering, building and automobile industries, whose remarkable activity was not only expected to cause maintenance of the current rate of production but also arouses prospects of further steel works being introduced in the near future.

commanding the troops because of his familiarity with the country, states reports received here. Abyssinian troops are attempting to pass around Makale so as to attack in the north and thus cut off Ras Gugsa and his troops.

Very little news is coming from the southern front, but it is indicated that though the Italians are advancing slowly, territorial gains are small because the country is exceedingly difficult, trucks sticking fast in the desert sand.

EXTENSION OF TANGIER
STATUTE

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, November 13, 4.30 p.m.)

Paris, Nov. 13. Premier Laval on Tuesday received the Spanish Ambassador to Paris with whom he discussed the question of the prolongation of the Tangier statute which expires on November 22.

According to "Le Journal" the signatory powers to the statute intend to prolong the statute without modification "in spite of its present imperfections" since certain divergences of opinion could easily be overcome "by negotiations through ordinary diplomatic channels without setting in motion the complicated machinery of an international conference."

BRITON'S TRAGIC
DEATH

Found Shot In Boarding House

Shanghai, Nov. 13. A young Briton, Mr. G. C. Welford, was found dead in his room in a boarding house yesterday with a revolver by his side. He was thirty years of age and a native of Johannesburg and had been residing in the French Concession for some time past. He came to Shanghai from South Africa in 1932. He leaves a wife and child in Johannesburg. The British coroner, Mr. C. E. Haines, is holding an inquest this morning.

REMOVAL OF SILVER
OPPOSED

Peking, Nov. 13. Reports current for some days that the Japanese opposed the removal of silver from the Peking area appear to be confirmed by a Japanese military spokesman today who, speaking unofficially, said that the Japanese opposed the removal of the metal as, though the currency measures might work for a short time, their success depended on the support of a foreign loan which would have to be secured on the customs or railway revenue, which in turn would seriously affect the economic structure of the country.

SILVER COINS

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Nov. 13. It was announced to-day that a board to supervise the issue of government bank notes will be formed some time this week. Such an organization is to win the confidence of the public in the use of the notes of the Kwangtung Provincial Bank and the Canton Municipal Government. Up to this afternoon about $7,700,000 has been received by these two banks from holders who exchanged it for paper money, which is recognized as the only legal tender. As silver coins are

FRENCH NAVAL BUDGET

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, November 13, 4.30 p.m.)

Paris, Nov. 13. The French naval budget for 1936 which will be examined by the financial committee of the Chamber on Wednesday provides for a total expenditure of 3,420 million francs which is 526 million francs more than the figures for 1935.

The new budget provides for the increase of naval personnel by 4,650 men.

A sum of 1,547 million francs will be spent on the construction of new ships in 1936 as compared with 1,233 million francs in the preceding year, and 307 millions on the Naval Air Force which is 20 millions more than in 1935.

not accepted as a medium of buy- ing power, the two government banks have to issue more notes of small denominations to take the place of coins.

Private banks are paying their creditors in notes, although the original deposits were calculated on a silver basis. This represents a gain, as the banks can sell the silver to the government banks at the rate of $100 silver for $120 in paper and refund the depositors in paper. A clear 20 per cent profit is made.

SHANGHAI CRICKETERS IN FRIENDLY CONTEST

KERMANI REGISTERS CENTURY

K.C.C. Defeated

Right after the strenuous Interport game, the Shanghai cricketers went on to win a splendid game when they were entertained by the Kowloon Cricket Club, by defeating their hosts by 88 after very exciting play.

The feature of the day's match was the brilliant display by Kermani who registered 115 not out and who in the course of a great innings hit no fewer than 14 boundaries and 3 sixes.

A. T. Lay helped the Club a great deal by scoring a good 71, and it was a delight to see the way in which he helped himself to the runs. From the very beginning he opened his shoulders and scored with some terrific drives.

SHANGHAI OPENS ACCOUNT

On a perfect wicket Williams and Leckie opened Shanghai's innings against the attack of Burnett. Runs began to come fairly fast, but however with the score at 20 Williams was caught by Goodwin off Burnett after he had made 7. E. C. Baker who was twelfth man for Shanghai in the Interport match, was next man in but he did not last long for he was cleaned bowled by Goodwin with only five runs to his credit. Leckie was in splendid form and began to score all round the wicket, and Kermani who had joined him soon settled down to some pretty batting. Leckie, who had reached his 40, stepped in front of a straight ball from Smith and was given out lb.w. Stokes was now associated with Kermani and the pair went after the bowling, the latter who was once again in excellent form did not let a loose delivery go by and with a fine drive, he reached his 50, also sending the 140 up. Stokes was batting very confidently and drove Goodwin for some pretty boundaries but soon after he had reached his 20 he attempted to pull Goodwin to the leg boundary, but in swinging round, hit his wicket.

Shanghai were now 148 for 4 wickets.

Kermani's century. Jenkins was next to occupy the wicket and played the first few deliveries very carefully. Robbie Lee, who was bowling from the Bowling Green end, kept a perfect length, and the batsmen found a little difficulty in dealing with his balls. However in trying to vary his pace, he sent down a full toss which Jenkins neatly put to the leg boundary for 4.

Kermani who faced Goodwin was well set, and scored two sixes off successive balls and Jenkins got 2 fours. This was a most expensive over for Goodwin as he gave away 20 runs.

Ernie Fincher was then brought on in place of Goodwin. Kermani who now faced Burnett, sent up the 200 after 95 minutes play, he was playing splendidly and scored all round the wicket.

When play was adjourned for tea, Kermani had 86 not out and Jenkins 23 not out. The score board read 224-4-20.

After the 15 min interval, Jenkins only added 4 to his total and was bowled by Goodwin. Leach then went in but did not stay long. He obtained a 4 and two singles, and was nicely caught by Hung off R. Lee.

Kermani went on to play splendid cricket and soon made his century. Partnered by Elliott he raised his score to 115, then Elliott was caught by Hung off Goodwin. E. Madar joined Kermani and at 271 Shanghai declared for 7 wickets.

CLUB'S SHORT LEASE. The Club was faced with a huge score as Lay and Mackay opened innings. Off Williams first delivery, Lay scored a boundary and then "cut a nice couple. Williams was sending down some full tosses on the leg side and Mackay pulled him to the boundary and then hit a single. Facing Baker he pulled him for 4.

The 30 was sent up in quick time, and Stokes was brought on in place of Williams. Both batsmen scored freely and Lay with some crisp drives reached his 40. With the score at 71 Mackay tried to hook Madar to the leg boundary but was well held by Leckie after he had scored 28.

Ernie Fincher was next in and broke his "duck" with a single off Elliott. Lay gave Stokes a hard catch but it was not taken so he reached his 50. At 90 Leach came on and with his second delivery clean bowled Fincher. Hung did not stay long and was caught after scoring 8. R. Lee was also dismissed by a catch by Stokes off

Williams and Leckie who filled the breach indulged in some lively hitting and soon brought his score up to 32 when he skied a ball off Madar to Jenkins and was well held.

The rest of the Club batsmen did not do much and were all out for 173. Thus Shanghai had won a very close game by 87 runs.

6th Race—Victoria Handicap. For China Ponies classified by the Hong Kong Jockey Club as "C" Class at date of entry. Jockey allowance. One and Quarter Miles.

7th Race—Consolation Stakes. A Cup value $50 will be presented to the winning jockey. For China Ponies that have started at this meeting and not won. Weight 125 lbs. Ponies placed second at the meeting 7 lbs. penalty. Ponies placed third at the meeting 4 lbs. penalty. "C" Class ponies barred. To be ridden by ladies. Once Round.

Entries close at 3 p.m. on Wednesday, November 20, at the Secretary's Office, Messrs. Benjamin & Potts, New Stock Exchange Building, Ice House Street.

the under-graduates' attack. Shortly before the interval, Avtar Singh increased the winners' lead.

At the resumption, the game was not so evenly contested as in the first half. As the Radio players were pressing for most of the time, Oliveira, playing a good game for the losers, played in the pivotal position, he worked like a Trojan.

Avtar Singh did the "hat trick" by scoring two more goals in the second half. The final whistle was blown with the Radio still at tacking.

Poster Exhibition of yours is an activity in the right direction. It is the first effort of its kind in the Colony, perhaps in the whole Far East, and I fervently hope that this is but the beginning of many efforts to organise peace on a sure and certain foundation. This Exhibition deserves to be repeated and I heartily congratulate all who entered for the Competition as well as those who have succeeded in it. The organisers, too, merit not only our praise but our thanks. With men and women so keenly dedicated to the cause of peace, we can look optimistically to the future when war will be ousted from the world as it has been ousted from the family, the tribe, the clan, the province and nation. I hope, therefore, that this Exhibition will greatly strengthen our faith in that charter of international peace and collective security which we call the Covenant of the League of Nations.

APPEAL FOR MORE MEMBERS

Mr. S. V. Boxer the Hon. Secretary in a few well chosen words said that the League of Nations had very successfully organised the Competition. The Society had also previously organised a School Children's Essay Competition in which more than 80 boys and girls took part. The results had been great and in order that the Society should carry on its work of propaganda through education it was necessary to have more members and he therefore appealed for more.

The Society, he further said, will shortly be starting a study group of the League of Nations Covenant so that they may understand what the League of Nations stands for as everyday more truth is found in the Covenant which is unknown to many.

FOOTBALL NEWS AND GOSSIP

Aberdeen Scotch Rumours

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct. 24. Willie Mills, the inside left of Aberdeen is not for transfer, despite all the rumours that have been current recently. "There are no Aberdeen players for transfer," said Mr. F. J. Whitehead, chairman of the Aberdeen F.C. directors, yesterday. Mr. W. Mitchell, the vice-chairman, and Mr. E. Anderson, another director, concurred in this view. Arsenal and Aston Villa have approached the Pittodrie board of recent weeks regarding the possible transfer of not only Mills but of Armstrong, the international centre forward, but the club have indicated that they are not prepared to part with any players. Aberdeen are at the top of the League, and the directors' attitude will give satisfaction to the club's supporters.

QUALIFYING CUP

The Emergency and Finance Committee of the Scottish Football Association met yesterday in Glasgow, Mr. James Fleming, the president, in the chair. The Council, having deputed the duty of making arrangements for the semi-final of the Northern Section of the Qualifying Cup and the Scottish Section final to the committee, the following details were announced:—Northern Section semi-final—Blairgowrie v. Vale Ocoba, Buckie Thistle v. Elgin City. The games to be played on the grounds of the first-named clubs on November 2 at 2.45 p.m. Southern Section, final—Boiness v. Galston or Dalbeattie Star. It is hoped to play this game on November 2, but if this is not possible it will take place on November 16.

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS

In the event of the finalists being Boiness and Galston the game will be played at Brockville Park, Falkirk. Should Dalbeattie Star qualify, the final will be played at Rugby Park, Kilmarnock, if November 2, or on Somerset Park, Ayr if November 16.

DUNFERMLINE UNDECIDED

The Dunfermline directors have not decided on the team to meet Arbroath at Gayfield. It is quite evident that the forward line requires strengthening, their poor shooting having cost the Athletic a good number of points. However, it is believed that this defect will be remedied soon. The team will be chosen from:—Steele; Johnman and Warden; Bolt; Crawford, McLellan, Donald, and Harrison; Dobson, Thomson, McGowan, Chalmers, Murray, and Syme.

FALKIRK READY

Falkirk are ready for Alloa visit in the important "derby" at Brockville, and the team is announced as the same as that which accounted for Edinburgh City. Selection: Walker; Nisbet and Hamill; Batchelor, Shankley, and Docherty; Carruthers and Baxter; Keyes; Cowan and Dawson.

HIGHLAND LEAGUE PROGRAMME

The following Highland League programme has been arranged for Saturday—Elgin City v. Fraserburgh, Peterhead v. Ross County, Huntly v. Buckie Thistle, Keith v. Forres Mechanics, Inverness Thistle and Nairn County meet in the final of the Inverness Cup.

ELGIN CITY'S CHOICE

MacLennan, who has been out of the game since the opening day of the season on account of a leg injury, resumes for Elgin City in their home Highland League game with Fraserburgh. The selection is:—Parle; Brown and A. Grant; George, Logie, and Harvey; Penrose and McMillan; Dr. Bain; MacLennan and Kinnaird.

NEW SECRETARY

Captain A. H. Vince, Unionist organiser of Moray and Nairn, has been appointed secretary of Elgin City F.C. in succession to Mr. J. S. Dunbar, who has held the office for the past four years, and who leaves for Aberdeen next week.

ST. MIREN'S SELECTION

Although several of their players were injured in the game against Morton last week, St. Mirren expect to field their regular eleven against Raith Rovers at Love Street. The team:—McCloy; Baird and Ancell; Cunningham, Wilson, and Miller; Latimer and Knox; McGregor; McCamon and Gail. For their away match against Edinburgh City, Montrose will again try out a junior at right back in an otherwise unaltered

THE SPAHLINGER VACCINE

Fight For Final Recognition

Mr. Henry Spahlinger, the Swiss scientist who has devoted his life and fortune to the preparation of vaccines and serums to protect human beings and cattle against the terrible scourge of tuberculosis, has pursued his work in the face of severe obstacles and with very little encouragement. He recently obtained a remarkable triumph when the results of a three-year experiment by the Government of Northern Ireland were published and were deemed so successful by the veterinary officers in charge that the question of the compulsory use of the bovine vaccine was raised. Now, in an interview with the "Farmer's Weekly," Mr. Spahlinger has indicated the next stage in the prolonged fight for the final recognition of his work.

Results Satisfactory

The results of the Northern Ireland experiments, he said, were so satisfactory that the Government is now preparing to make a further test on so vast a scale that the result is expected to be absolutely conclusive. It is probable that many thousands of animals will be vaccinated and their reaction and degree of immunity carefully recorded.

Thus the scepticism of the medical profession is to be met. For a somewhat critical article in the "British Medical Journal" on the recent report asked for a carefully planned experiment on an adequate number of "animals," while the report itself advised a further test, particularly in order to ascertain the period of immunity conferred by the vaccine. These experiments are necessarily a slow business, but Mr. Spahlinger himself recognises the need, and once the vaccine is established and widely used the benefits will be enormous. If the bovine vaccine is established, then Mr. Spahlinger will be able to seek recognition for his human vaccine; he himself has no doubts, but he wants to convince the world that it has "at last" a means of stamping out completely "this dread disease."

team, which reads:—Mackay; Junior and Osborne; Duncan, Reid, and Smith; Allan and Hampton; Malloy; Conlin and Pinkerton.

HALF-BACK INJURED

Jim Ross, Buckie Thistle's left half-back, suffered a shoulder injury in the Qualifying Cup match with Wick Academy and will be absent from the Thistle's ranks for some weeks. Thistle's team against Huntly at Huntly in the Highland League this week is:—Wood; Noble and John; Bowie; Middleton; Frank; Smith; Emslie; Bowie and Gormack; Oeder; Nish and Milne. In the first round of the Army Cup at Bedford Barracks, Edinburgh, yesterday the 1st Battalion Gordon Highlanders defeated the Royal Scots Greys by one goal to nil.

HERVAR DRAGGED TO POOTUNG

Eighty Feet Of Hull Now Visible

Shanghai Nov. 9.
 Eighty feet of the starboard side of the hull of the Hervar, which was sunk in a collision with the ss. Tungtuck last December 17, was visible late yesterday afternoon after she had been dragged more than 100 feet from the Channel to a point closer to the Pootung shore. Lying on her side, the vessel was visible from a point about 15 feet back of her bow to her bridge, as well as part of her decks.
 The work of raising and pulling the Hervar in closer to shore to a point where she was nearly ready to be beached, was accomplished by the process of lightening her weight. First the mud was scooped away from her sides and as much inside as was possible.
 Following this, divers went below and connected tubes to the double bottom tanks in the ship. Into these tanks compressed air was pumped which lightened the weight of the ship about 500 tons, and leaving about 800 tons dead-weight to be lifted.

Contracts Concluded Within Last Four Months

Geneva, Nov. 7.
 The League Committee on Sanctions were presented with a serious problem this morning when the Secretariat of the League of Nations received a communication from the Government of Siam informing it of large-scale ship-building contracts that have been concluded by Siam with Italy within the past four months.
 The units now nearing completion in the Italian shipyards are necessary to Siam's national defence, the note says.
 The contracts, signed in July this year, call for two 430-ton torpedo boats, two 400-ton mine-layers and seven 470-ton torpedo boats. Delivery was to be made within a period of from two to 18 months.—Hayas.
